Upper Branch Rejects House Amendment That Would Make Company Take Down Structure Without Recompense

TO SEEK AGREEMENT

House Concurs in New Draft of Teachers' Tenure Bill—Plan for Firemen's Pensions Is Reached by Committee

Through refusing to suspend one of the Senate's rules, the upper branch of the Legislature this afternoon rejected the amendment made by the House yesterday to the bill providing for the removal of the elevated structure between the North station and Sullivan square. The amendments made would compel the Elevated company to remove the structure without recompense.

In the debate on the bill the amendment was declared unconstitutional in that they would deprive the Elevated of property without due process of law. Agreement will now have to be reached between the two branches over the original bill.

The new draft of the teachers' retirement bill, as passed by the Senate, was concurred in by the House without debate or division.

The conference committee on the firemen's pension bill reported recommending that it had agreed upon an amendment providing that the age of retirement shall be 55 instead of 50 years, and that the act shall take effect in each city upon its acceptance by the city council instead of by the people.

The conference committee on the bill providing for the investigation of industrial controversies by the state board of arbitration reported that its members were unable to agree, and the report was accepted.

The ways and means committee reported ought to pass on the bill to establish boards of parole and an advisory board of pardons.

The rules committee recommended the adoption of a resolution appropriating $510 for the payment of cash prizes in certain competitions in rifle practice in the naval militia.

EXECUTOR OF FRYE WILL IS REMOVED

Waldo B. Hayward was removed by Judge Grant of probate court today as executor of the will of George A. Frye, a commission merchant who left the bulk of his $130,000 estate to Tufts college, because he had refused to bring a suit, at the request of the college, against Victor J. Loring, a lawyer, to recover a fee of $10,000 that was paid to the attorney for services for the probate. The college authorities thought the fee was excessive and wanted the executor to seek to get back all or part of it but the executor declined on the ground that he regarded the fee proper.

CHELSEA GROUNDS TO BE IMPROVED

Plans were made yesterday by manufacturers of Chelsea who met in Mayor Willard's office to improve the playgrounds in the vicinity of their manufacturing plants, thereby furnishing recreation for the employees as well as the children of the district.

The manufacturers in the west side agreed to consider the work of improving the Carter street playgrounds, those in the Mill hill district will improve the ward 3 playground and those in the east side will improve those in their section.

SENATE SUSTAINS GOVERNOR FOSS' BOND BILL VETO

Legislators Take Action to Mean That Upper Branch Will Take Same Course if Washburn Bill Is Disapproved

OBJECTIONS SIMILAR

By a unanimous vote the Senate today sustained Governor Foss' veto of the bill permitting electric light companies to issue preferred stock to twice the amount of capital stock.

Senator Gordon, chairman of the committee on public lighting, explained that the subject matter of the bill has been covered in a codification of the lighting laws which is to come before the Senate tomorrow morning.

In the message the Governor objected to the measure on the ground that it allowed the companies to issue preferred stock to twice the amount of capital stock.

LOST FISHERMAN GREETED HIS MATES ON THEIR ARRIVAL

John Valerio, a member of the crew of the fishing schooner Leonora Silveira, stood on T wharf today as his vessel was coming up the harbor and shouted greetings to his dorymates as the vessel tied up. Capt. John Silveira was about to hoist the colors to half-mast for Valerio, who had strayed from the craft in his dory in the South channel last Friday. Valerio was sighted by a steam lighter, rescued, and landed at Ipswich last Saturday.

At the same time that Valerio strayed from the craft four other fishermen were lost sight of, but the fishing schooner Belbina P. Domingos picked up all four and later transferred them to the Silveira on the fishing grounds. The Domingos also arrived here today.

QUICKNESS IN ARITHMETIC AMAZES SWEDISH EDUCATOR

Dr. Kihlgren, Superintendent of Arvika Schools, Visits Boston Institutions and Expresses His Pleasure Over Manner in Which Pupils Handle Figures

Dr. G. Kihlgren, superintendent of schools of Arvika, Sweden, arrived in Boston Tuesday morning under special grant from his government to visit and inspect the public school systems in this country. He went first to the Martin model school on Huntington avenue and then to the High School of Commerce. Before coming here he visited some schools in Springfield and Worcester

Work on the Harvard Stadium bridge has progressed so rapidly that the understructure, which includes the sinking of the foundations for the great towers which are to be erected at each end of the bridge, has been put in place and the cement work on these towers has been built to the water level. The bridge will not be finished until the first of September, and as a result the crowds which attend the Harvard-Yale baseball game on Soldiers field June 18 and those which attend the Stadium exercises the afternoon before will have to pass over the narrow bridge which has been placed across the river at this point.

WITNESS SAYS UNITED SHOE PRESSED HIM

In Dissolution Suit Machine Maker Says When He Refuses to Sell Out He Is Forced Out of Business by Company

Refusing to sell his leveling machine to the United Shoe Machinery Company against the expressed wish of Sidney W. Winslow, its president, Charles F. Jackson of Lynn testified in the government suit for the dissolution of the United Shoe Company at the Federal building today that he was later forced out of business by the defendant company.

He declared that it put a similar machine on the market and practically pressed him out.

W. H. Clark, an inventor, testified that he had asked E. P. Hurd of the defendant company to permit him to install a lock stitching machine in the Richardson factory in Reading and that Mr. Hurd replied: "Clark, you mean all right but it is against our policy to put another machine in where ours is. We will not permit a machine to be installed where you are working."

James A. Fowler, counsel for the government, declared that under the royalty system the company secures $20,000 in 17 years for machines similar to those costing $900 from other companies and even at the end of that period the purchaser does not own the machine.

Mr. Fowler produced a cost list of the machinery manufactured by the Haverhill Machine Company. One of the things he said he would attempt to prove was that this company manufactured a Pettibone's heel which is sold at $900. There is a $200 fee charged and then the manufacturer pays $30 a month, $15 for rental and $15 against the machine. He pointed out that by the royalty system in 17 years the United Shoe Company gets $20,000 for a similar product.

Edwin A. Webster of the Haverhill machine company was questioned concerning some of the manufacturers who used the machines. He said a Lynn manufacturer had bought one for $900 and another manufacturer had bought one for $900. His company, he said, does not charge any royalties, but lets out the machines on the rental basis.

Witness testified that 38 out of 58 manufacturers were using United Shoe machines and Haverhill machines also. The tying clauses had nothing to do with them.

Counsel asked how long it would take the witness to install a complete line of shoe machinery in a factory with an output of 6000 shoes per day. Witness said he could not fill such an order. To furnish welters for a 6000-pair shoe factory it would take about two months, and to supply heel machines about three months.

That there are not more than a dozen factories in this country manufacturing 6000 pairs or more of shoes a day was admitted by the witness.

W. M. Moloy of the Boylston Manufacturing Company testified that his company manufactured seven or eight machines for the finishing room. He admitted that Henry H. Rogers at one time controlled the company, but that he never tried to advance its trade. An effort to increase business was made when the western manufacturers took the business in hand.

SMUGGLED TRUNK FORFEITED
Judge Morton in the United States district court today ordered the forfeiture to the government of the Ann V. Allison trunk which arrived at this port on the steamer Carpathia March 17 and was seized at the Cunard docks in connection with the smuggling case here. The costumes and gowns in the trunk are valued at $4500. They will be sold at public auction by Guy Murchie, United States marshal, either this or next week.

After spending the next four or five days in Boston Mr. Kihlgren will go to Newark, N. J.

I. W. W. LEADERS AT IPSWICH ARE HELD BY COURT

Carol Pingree, His Wife and Nathaniel Harman Are Not Allowed Bail in Connection With Conflict Which Is Fatal

OTHER STRIKERS OUT

IPSWICH, Mass.—Carol Pingree, his wife, Emma May Pingree, and Nathaniel Harman, I. W. W. leaders, were held without bail this morning in the Ipswich district court by Judge Charles Sayward, charged with causing the disturbance Tuesday night which resulted fatally for Nicoleta Pangelopoulos, a Greek woman, and injuries to three men and two other women.

All the injured are in the Salem hospital, and one of the women is under arrest, charged with complicity in the disorder.

In all 11 men and eight women are under arrest on charges of participation in the conflict. A number of these were released on bail this forenoon. Greek citizens going on their bonds in sums from $100 to $2000. They were represented by Harry M. Sayward as counsel, the son of the presiding judge.

A large detail of police was in the court room during the hearing and refused admittance to every person thought to be a member of the I. W. W.

The 10 prisoners who were not released were taken to the county jail at Salem this afternoon, in two automobiles, with an escort of two motor cars filled with police. Trials will begin Thursday, it is expected.

About 200 Portuguese have been imported, and are being lodged in a boarding house on Central street. It is said that 75 more are coming tonight.

There is to be a parade in connection with the obsequies of the deceased woman late this afternoon, participated in by a large number of strikers, and escorted by mounted police.

Thomas Halliday, I. W. W. leader, and national secretary of the textile branch of the organization, attempted to enter the building today and was arrested by Patrick Lehan, city marshal of Salem. Halliday has just come here to take charge of the situation.

As a result of the disorder 100 policemen are on duty in the mill district and they are refusing to allow any I. W. W. member to enter streets in the vicinity.

BELGIAN PREMIER URGES MILITARY LOAN FOR PEACE

M. de Broqueville Declares Fund Necessary to Prevent Country Becoming Battlefield

LONDON—The Belgian premier, M. de Broqueville, stated in the Senate yesterday that, while not doubting the loyalty of the powers guaranteeing Belgian neutrality, experience showed the necessity of raising a special loan of £284,000,000 for military expenses to prevent the possibility of Belgium providing Europe with a battlefield.

NAVY YARD MEN MAKE DEMANDS

WASHINGTON—Demands for increased wages and improved working conditions were made of Secretary of the Navy Daniels today by representatives of laborers in practically all government navy yards. Among other grievances, extreme dissatisfaction was voiced because of the "Taylor stop watch system" designed to "speed up" the work.

Secretary Daniels requested a final and formal report together with all demands by July 1. A number of senators and representatives appeared in behalf of the navy workers.

RAILROADS GET CONCESSION

WASHINGTON—Directly reversing its previous ruling, the interstate commerce commission today decided that railroads may, by altering their tariffs, advance freight payments to steamship companies turning import traffic over to them for delivery.

MEANEY MILK BILL VETO IS SUSTAINED IN SENATE

By a vote of 19 to 17 Governor Foss was sustained in his veto of the Meaney milk bill by the Senate today. The Senate accepted the report of the conference committee on the bill for the filling of interrogatories.

Senator Fisher of Westford analyzed the objections of the Governor, declaring that the Meaney bill would prevent the mixing of milk from without the state. He said the Governor by his veto message exactly contradicted what he said in an earlier message asking the Legislature to pass some legislation on the distribution of milk.

Senator Wells of Haverhill favored sustaining the veto and opposed the bill, which he declared was unconstitutional and cited decisions from the United States supreme court to support his contention.

Senator Clark of Brockton said he regarded the Meaney bill as a measure of the most positive character. He said that if it went through, every milk producer in Northern New England and in Canada, who is supplying the Boston market, would take notice; it would also act as an incentive to milk producers in this state to produce better milk when they know it is to be labeled Massachusetts milk, he said.

PRIZES AWARDED TO MASTIFFS AND HOUNDS AT SHOW

Imported Dog Wins First Honors in His Class at Auburndale—Entries of Terriers Many

AUBURNDALE, Mass.—Prizes were awarded in the tenth annual dog show of the Ladies Kennel Association this morning. Among the noted winners was British Monarch, owned by the Kinnelon Kennels, and but lately imported, taking first in class 4 of the mastiffs. Robert R. Ames, Chieftain of Argyle was awarded a ribbon in class 2 of the mastiffs. In class 3 British Monarch took first and Bernice of Kinnelon Kennels took second.

In class 32, American foxhounds, A. B. Alcock's Comet took first place; Bright, owned by Rita Tallott came in for the second, and Gordon, entered by the same owner, took third. Mrs. L. C. Markin carried away the prize in Boston terriers with Billy Ringmaster.

The fox terriers prize went to Sabine Ringmaster, owned by the Sabine kennels. The prize for entry 423 in smooth fox terriers was won by Peg o' My Heart, owned by Mrs. Alfred Holland Smith.

The Airedales, with Harold Read as judge, have an entry of 46, and include many winners at previous shows. Fox terriers, both smooth and rough, are numerous.

The exhibition is held on the grounds of the Woodland Park hotel.

COUNSEL CLEARED AS BRIBE CHARGE HEARING IS CLOSED

Public Inquiry Into Dynamite Jury Reports Ends With Announcement of No Evidence

Defendants, counsel and jurors were declared free from any implication in the bribery charges growing out of the Wood-Atteux-Collins trial at a public hearing before Judge Crosby in the superior court today. The jurors were then dismissed, and the case was closed, except for the continuation of the investigation by the grand jury tomorrow in regard to the man who Juror Morris Shuman alleges approached him last Thursday night.

Henry F. Hurlburt, who was attorney for William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company, during the trial, told the court that he felt it was not improper to say that after a most thorough investigation the district attorney had found nothing implicating either the defendants or their attorneys.

District Attorney Pelletier announced that he was glad to be able to affirm what Mr. Hurlburt had said. Judge Crosby then expressed his gratification and dismissed the jury.

HOME RULE BILL IS CARRIED BY ENGLISH HOUSE

Irish Unionist Leader Declares Willingness to Take Full Responsibility for Ulster's Resistance to New Regime

MR. REDMOND HEARD

London Police Seize 4000 Rifles With Bayonets Hidden in a Stable at Hammersmith and Believed for Use in Ireland

LONDON—After the defeat of Mr. Balfour's motion to reject the home rule bill by a majority of 98, the second reading of the bill in the House of Commons was carried.

There was a remarkable attendance during the two days' debate which was opened by Mr. Asquith who admitted the gravity of Ulster unionists' opposition to the bill.

Mr. Balfour in moving the rejection of the bill, declared the intention of Ulster to resist the measure at all costs.

Sir Edward Carson, in a speech described by Mr. Redmond as the most violent he had yet delivered in the House, reiterated his willingness to take the full responsibility for every resistance they are able to organize.

Mr. Redmond declared his party ready to do everything to conciliate the apprehension of Unionists, nevertheless 28 Irish counties could not submit to intimidation by force.

In conclusion he declared: "Ireland today is crimeless. Ireland is filled with hope. Beware how you dash that hope to the ground."

Bonar Law, summing up the case against the bill, asked if the government intended to impose the measure by force and if so whether they intended to employ force without receiving the sanction of English electors.

As a result of police observation a stable in Hammersmith was searched last night and some 4000 rifles and bayonets seized. These were, it is believed, for use in Ireland.

War Agitation in Austria Declared Based on False Reports

MISS TILNEY BASSETT BUSY TEACHING HOW TO KEEP HOUSE

(Special to the Monitor)
SHEFFIELD, England.—The question of domestic science is one of universal interest, and the training college in domestic subjects in Leopold street, Sheffield, has, thanks to the efforts of Miss Tilney Bassett, accomplished much in the modern training of children which cannot fail to have a great influence for good in the lives of those who have benefited in this way.

In the course of an interview Miss Tilney Bassett said, in reply to a question as to how she first became interested in the work in which she has proved herself to be so successful, that as soon as she heard that such a career was possible she exclaimed, "That is just what I should love."

A native of Ireland, she, with characteristic national enterprise, immediately underwent a training in needlework and cookery at Dublin, and then resorted to Liverpool for the laundry and house-keeping necessary for a diploma. Immediately after receiving this, Miss Tilney Bassett was asked to undertake a lecturing tour for the Girls Friendly Society in Meath, and here she had a delightful experience, being feted on her way from place to place. Then she was given control at the Limerick technical school, and after only one and a half year's experience in teaching, was offered the post of head assistant at Newcastle. Nine years ago she came to Sheffield to take over a school with eight students. This number has gone steadily up until it has increased to 60, concrete evidence of the initiative and remarkable organizing ability of the principal.

Ethical Side Felt

She is deeply imbued with the importance of what might be termed the ethical side of her work, shown in the good influence the training has on the character of the students, who, in their turn, go out to impart this wholesome bias to the thousands of children at the elementary schools who eventually come under them for training.

The chief difficulty to be met with in students, says Miss Tilney Bassett, is that manipulation has been such a neglected side of their education. In cookery it is easy to see how important this is, and one of the advantages of the Sheffield Training College is that only a certain time is given to do things, and they have to be completed in that time. Miss Tilney Bassett is also insistent on the point of the student being able to do things with a minimum of utensils in order to be able to meet the difficulty of teaching in places where there is practically no equipment. The ideal of such equipment is, says this lady, for every center for teaching cookery to be fitted up like an artisan's home, with extra utensils to allow for the fact that there are 18 girls in each class.

About two years ago a scheme for a hostel in Broomgrove road was started with a view to giving housewifery students more practical experience than was possible with only the two rooms at Leopold street as a training ground. A visit to the hostel showed that spring cleaning operations were being carried out with great energy and apparent enjoyment. One student, in the blue overall and cap which forms the simple uniform, who was washing out a cupboard with much vigor, confessed that she found the annual campaign far more exciting than the usual daily routine. In the garden a couple more students diligently belabored a dusty sofa with bamboo beaters, and other students were taking evident pleasure in cleaning up the kitchen, which is specially allocated as a lesson room. The tour of inspection having reached the attic, the capital manner in which a bedroom had been papered, and the way in which an awkward corner of the sloping roof had been managed was admired.

Heirloom From 1604

In going into the private rooms in the house adjoining the hostel, occupied by the principal, a very interesting heirloom belonging to her was observed. It was a wonderful example of needlework portraiture of the seventeenth century, and depicted a Tilney ancestress of the owner. The face is delicately painted, and the typical ringlets are made of real hair, while around the throat is a string of tiny genuine pearls. The dress and draperies are worked in silk, and the little berthe is of hand-made lace. Turning over the picture, the date 1604 was found inscribed upon the back.

The excessive modesty of the descendant of the original of this unique portrait made it exceedingly difficult to make her talk about herself or opinions at all, far less of the long line of ancestry of which she is a representative.

One very interesting personal view, however, was expressed during the conversation, and that was as to what Miss Tilney Bassett would like to do were she not in the position she fills in such a capable manner. She feels a great need for some more practical teaching of cookery to the poor which would come right down to the level of their needs. Her idea would be to rent one of their own small houses and fit it up as a model of what such a house can become. Here the mothers could come and bring their scraps of meat and so on, and have solved for them in a really practical manner the problem of how to make the best of things by being shown the way to cook what they actually have, in the most satisfactory way.

GERMAN STADIUM IS LARGEST AND FINEST IN EUROPE

Ground for Next Olympic Games Within Easy Access of the Capital and Is Nearly Ready

(Special to the Monitor)
BERLIN, Germany.—The German stadium, the scene of the next Olympic games, which is situated on the Grunewald race course within easy access of Berlin, is practically completed.

Geheimrat March, who was also the architect of the Berlin American church, designed the magnificent ground and its attendant buildings. The stadium was commenced five years ago, but funds were not forthcoming until the Union Club took the matter in hand. It is not greatly to the credit of Berlin or any other of the German cities that they all objected for some reason or other to participate in the expense of building and organizing. However, the Union Club came gallantly to the rescue, giving 2,250,000 marks, and the result is the finest and largest stadium in the whole of Europe.

It is built in the form of an amphitheater. In addition to the imperial stand there are 20,000 seats from each of which a perfect view can be obtained. In the center is the football ground, which is 110 meters long and 70 broad. Two semicircular spaces, between the football ground and the curve of the track, each 4000 square meters, are for athletics. The entire surface of the lawn is 15,000 square meters. The running track on the outside of the football ground is 600 meters long and 7.5 wide, with curves of 30 m. slope.

On the south side the track is broader, allowing for the 100 meter races while the others are in progress. The bicycle track encloses the running track; it is 66,667 meters in length and nine in width. The curves are of 4.40 meter slope, allowing a speed of 45-70 kilometers an hour. The straight part of the track is 168 meters in length on each side, which is the longest ever made. On the north side is the swimming tank, 100 meters long and 22 broad, the greatest depth being 4.20 meters. The diving tower is 15 feet high.

There are ample dressing rooms, a well appointed press room with long distance telephones, restaurants and every possible convenience and the various sections are connected by subways. A number of appropriate statues by well-known sculptors have been erected round the stadium, while its charming situation in the Grunewald woods leaves nothing to be desired.

CZECH LEADER SEES ARTIFICIAL WAR AGITATION

Feeling in Austria Is Declared to Have Been Worked Up by False News of Consul Who Was Known to Be Unharmful

DANGER POINTED OUT

(Special to the Monitor)
VIENNA, Austria.—In the course of a vigorous attack on the policy pursued by the monarchy during the Balkan crisis, Dr. Kramarz, the Czech leader, declared that because the tranquillity of the Austrian public at the beginning of the crisis did not suit the policy inspired by the "Albanian fever" of certain circles, attempts were made to create artificially a warlike mood, by the crime against Austrian welfare known as the Prochaska affair.

I affirm it as a fact, and, if necessary, I can prove it, Dr. Kramarz continued, that it was known that Consul Prochaska was unharmful. Nevertheless, precisely those journals that stand in particular relationship to the foreign office press bureau engaged in the most violent agitation, and published the most horrible news. This was the source of the troubles we have gone through, the origin of the war fever, the cause of the terrible economic losses we have suffered, the beginning of our industrial and commercial ruin. The result was that we were compromised in the eyes of Europe, and that every honest Austrian was compelled to doubt the rightness of our official policy.

The right policy for Austria-Hungary would have been, Dr. Kramarz declared, to leave Albania to Greece and Serbia, the two states interested in checking Italian propaganda; but the policy actually followed involved grave dangers, and Austria-Hungary would have to do everything in her power to keep the Adriatic free.

OXFORD MUSIC LIBRARY APPEAL

(Special to the Monitor)
OXFORD, England.—Some time ago an appeal was made for further additions to its collection by the committee of the Oxford University music students' library. The King's response to this appeal has taken the form of a presentation of the complete works of Bach (Bach Society edition).

The Bodleian curators have furnished a room in one of the galleries of the Radcliffe Camera for the purposes of musical study, and have placed at the disposal of the committee a comprehensive selection of musical works for their library. But the library is still incomplete, and the committee, encouraged by their past success, are making a further appeal to the public on its behalf, and are therefore issuing a list of desiderata (with the cost) to any one who is anxious to supply the deficiencies by a gift of one or more of the desired works.

ALL GERMANY CELEBRATES CENTENARY OF COMPOSER

(Copyright by Karl Altmann, Berlin)

Wagner memorial in the Tiergarten on which wreaths were laid by representative of the Kaiser

(Special correspondence of the Monitor)
BERLIN, Germany.—Wagner's centenary was celebrated in all parts of the country, less, perhaps, at Berlin than in some other cities, no doubt on account of the wedding festivities which leave little time for anything else.

By the special wish of the bride the program of the gala performance in the opera house will consist of the first act of "Lohengrin," and wreaths will be laid on the statue of Wagner in the Tiergarten by a representative of the Kaiser.

On May 22, the anniversary of the composer's birth, there was a commemoration in the royal Schauspielsplatz at noon, at which Prof. Conrad Burbach delivered an appropriate address. The cathedral choir sang excerpts from Richard Wagner and the Royal Opera orchestra played, under the conductorship of Kapellmeister Blech, the introduction to the "Siegfried Idyll," and the opera chorus sang the Lateran chorus from "Rienzi."

In the afternoon of the same day, by command of the Emperor, a performance was given in the opera house school for boys and girls of the higher classes in Berlin. The performance was "Die Meistersinger." At Dresden the centenary was celebrated on a very large scale, performances of Wagner's operas having been given at the royal opera every night throughout the week.

BATTLE CRUISER TYPE OF BRITISH WARSHIP MAY GO

(Special to the Monitor)
DEVONPORT, Eng.—It will be interesting to see whether the trials of the battle cruiser Queen Mary, which recently arrived at Devonport to be docked prior to her gun-mounting and power trials, will do anything to restore the battle cruiser type of warship to popularity. If not, the battle cruiser, the first of which was laid down in 1906, will disappear from the British navy without having had an opportunity of being tested in actual war.

Mr. Churchill's speech of March 26 explained why, for the present, the Admiralty had decided to amalgamate the battleship and battle-cruiser designs, and the present year will probably mark the decision of the admiralty to abandon the battle-cruiser type altogether.

The trials of the Queen Mary will also be of interest in view of the trials of the Kongo, built for the Japanese navy, and the Seydlitz, the German battle-cruiser. The Kongo was laid down by Messrs. Vickers at Barrow on January 17, 1911, and launched on May 18, 1912; the Seydlitz, which was launched before the Kongo on March 30, 1912, was laid down on February 4, 1911; whilst the Queen Mary, which was laid down by Messrs. Vickers at Barrow on March 6, 1911, was the first of the three battle cruisers to be ready for launching, and was launched on March 20, 1912.

The displacement of the Queen Mary is 27,000 tons; of the Seydlitz 24,000 tons; and of the Kongo 27,500 tons. The designed horsepower of the Kongo is only 64,800. The Queen Mary has a larger horsepower than the other cruisers of the Lion type which have engines of 70,000 horsepower.

The Seydlitz has probably a greater horsepower than the Moltke and Goeben, which have engines of 76,680 and 75,000 horsepower respectively. As regards armament the Seydlitz has a main armament which includes 10 12in. guns; the Queen Mary has eight 13.5in. guns, and the Kongo has eight 14in. guns. The Kongo has also an anti-torpedo armament of 16 6in. guns as compared with the 4in. guns of the Queen Mary and has eight tubes for discharging 21in. torpedoes.

The Queen Mary is designed for a speed of 28 knots but will no doubt easily be able to exceed it; the Kongo can develop the same speed as the battle-cruisers of the Lion class; and the Seydlitz will probably prove to be a little faster. The trials of the Kongo, which were thoroughly satisfactory, have already been dealt with in The Christian Science Monitor and it will probably be found that the last British battle-cruiser Tiger and the battle-cruisers building for Germany will embody some of the features of the Kongo.

RESOLUTIONS FOR SAFETY AT SEA

(Special to the Monitor)
COPENHAGEN, Denmark.—Among other resolutions carried at the International Congress of Sea Law in Copenhagen was one for the creation of a special bureau for dealing with all questions regarding safety at sea. Improvement in the construction of steamers and international homogeneity regarding wireless telegraphy, the construction of water-tight compartments, safety appliances, and regulations regarding deck cargo, were considered advisable.

FAMILY OF THE SETTLER WANTED

(Special to the Monitor)
PERTH, W. Aus.—Though the value of the system of farm training for immigrants is fully acknowledged by Australian expert opinion, it is generally held that England is not the best country in which to establish such farms, owing to the great differences in climatic and other conditions.

The view is also spreading throughout Australia that it is a great mistake on the part of the employers of labor to encourage the migration of men without their families. This can only be remedied by the employers who at present do not provide sufficient accommodation for married men. A sound policy of emigration has been established, however, in the system of ready made farms such as are offered by the Midland Railway Company of Western Australia.

Such a policy makes obligatory the formation of new syndicates and the buying of land in large blocks for development of these lines. Money which is spent in supporting migration societies might with profit be laid out in this new direction.

ENGLISH SUFFRAGISTS GO ON WITH MILITANCY CAMPAIGN

(Special correspondence of the Monitor)

LONDON—The list of suffragette outrages for one week includes the firing of two houses at Cambridge, of one house at Folkestone, of a church at Eastbourne, and the destruction of the organ at Penn Church, Buckinghamshire, also the breaking of a number of windows in Norwich and in Derby and bomb attempts at the London & North Western railway station at Hibel Road, Macclesfield, at the Great Central & Metropolitan railway station, Aylesbury, and in the West Hill sub postoffice at Wandsworth.

But the most daring as well as the most ably carried out of the week's militant outrages is the one reported from Edinburgh, where a bomb explosion took place at the Royal Observatory, Blackford Hall. The buildings which stand by themselves consist of Professor Sampson's, the astronomer royal for Scotland's house, those of the staff, and the observatory. It was this latter building to which perpetrators of the outrage obtained entrance and in which they laid a fuse from the ground floor up a spiral stairway to a lumber room immediately under the 24 in. reflector. Here a bomb was fired soon after midnight.

The noise awakened the professor and his staff, but not suspecting that anyone could have entered the observatory and finding nothing amiss with their houses, they concluded that the noise had not occurred on the premises. In the morning, however, it was found that windows and doors in the observatory had been blown out and that portions of the staircase were broken down. Parts of a case which had contained the bomb were found encrusted in the wall of the room in which the explosion occurred.

Among the debris was picked up a lady's bag and some papers on which were written: "How beggarly appears argument before defiant deeds," and "Progress is made from scaffold to scaffold and from stake to stake."

Government Challenged

Both the Suffragette and Votes for Women call attention to the indignities to militancy uttered by Sir Edward Carson in his speeches dealing with Home Rule in Ireland, especially in that delivered by him at the Willowfield Unionist Club at Belfast.

Votes for Women asks, "On what grounds other than cowardice do they (the government) claim to allow Sir Edward Carson and his supporters to go scot free whilst they put in motion the full rigor of the law against women?"

Miss Christabel Pankhurst quotes these words of Sir Edward Carson's on the militant project of Ulster: "I know a great deal of that will involve statutory illegality, but it will also involve moral righteousness. In the circumstances I say to you go on without fear or trembling. Let us do what we believe to be right and leave the consequence to a higher power."

"How very like," comments Miss Pankhurst, "are these words to the words so often uttered from the criminal's dock by suffragettes."

It is noteworthy that at the various suffragette trials, and on other occasions, when the extraordinary difference in the attitude of the government in dealing with instigations to conspiracy in the case of suffragettes, and in that of the famous Anti-Home Ruler and others, has been referred to, silence has merely been enjoined and never even an attempt made at explanation.

German Critic Repudiated

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—The manifesto which Dr. Gertrud Baumer, the president of the German Bund for Women Suffrage, addressed recently to the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, and which condemned the action of the English militant suffragettes, has received direct contradiction from the rank and file of the German Women's Franchise Leagues.

They have addressed a letter of protest to Dr. Gertrud Baumer which has been sent by the secretary to Mrs. Petrick Lawrence, who sent it to the paper which gave publicity to the manifesto. The "open letter" from the German women states that the manifesto was written without the authority of the general meeting, who were never consulted on the matter.

"That German women, in the name of the United Women's Movement, should strike their English sisters in the back," continues the letter, "English women, who through their government have been driven to desperation, and for conscience' sake have suffered martyrdom such as has never been experienced in cultured states. And why have German women done this? In order to be pleasing in the eyes of the ignorant masses of the fatherland. Such a complete failure of duty on the part of deputies in Parliament would be met with cries of 'Shame,' nor have we a different answer to give."

SPEECH OF VIENNA RECTOR STARTLES PEACE MEETING

Educator in Militarists' Land Says Only Hypocrisy Tries to Mix War and Humanity

(Special to the Monitor)

VIENNA, Austria—A meeting was held in Vienna University, in commemoration of the first meeting of the Hague congress (May 18, 1899), at which some of the best known advocates for peace assisted. Considerable astonishment was caused by the speech of the rector of the university, Professor Weichselbaum, who took a very bold line, in the support of peace.

He said: "The present rector of the university stands on your side, with the entire weight of his sympathy. A university is the center of intellectual education and is called to advance the culture of the land, and it is only in times of peace that the work of culture can be carried on. We have all learnt with horror how this last war commenced with fine phrases—it was said brothers must be liberated—and ended by the slaughter of the defenseless, of women and children, and finally we see how war means violence instead of liberation for those who should have been freed. The war was begun under the sign of the cross, and was an example of cruelty, as all wars must be since the newest inventions in deadly weapons.

"A war can never be humane," continued the rector: "whoever says so is a conscious or unconscious hypocrite. Humanity and war are mutually exclusive."

This speech was regarded as epoch making in a country where duelling is still compulsory on military men, and where those in high positions do not often feel sufficiently courageous to make a stand against the militarism which is the spirit of the court and aristocracy.

Dr. Alfred Fried said that those interested in the cause of peace were considering the possibility of the establishment of international bureaus, for the control of news. He said that it was well known that the passions of the nations were set aflame by the spread of reports and false news to render war popular. These offices would control such news and trace it to its source, exposing the authors of the attempts to mislead the public.

Baroness Berta Suttner also spoke, and the meeting closed amid much applause for the rector.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT OPENS COMPETITION

Group at the royal naval and military tournament, showing costumes of olden times

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—The principal event at the opening of the naval and military tournament was the musical drive, which was again carried out this year by the F battery, royal horse artillery.

As compared with last year the display showed considerable improvement. It was perhaps a little quieter, a little less noise and less acrobatic effort on the part of young drivers endeavoring to get the last ounce of pace out of their horses, but the driving showed great improvement, and there were not the upsets which rather spoiled the show last year for many spectators. The guns and carriages were exceptionally well turned out and the performance reflected very great credit on Major Ollivant, who was responsible for it.

Another event which goes on during the run of the tournament is the riding and jumping competition for N. C. O's and men. The competition is confined to teams of four from each unit and several teams are judged each day. On the opening day the thirty-second brigade R. F. artillery, F battery R. H. A. third hussars and twentieth hussars took part in the jumping tests which were this year more than usually severe and included a double oxer, a stile and a wall.

Following the jumping there was an excellent display of club swinging by the boys of the Gordon home. Working, which deserved the applause it received. A tug of war (120 stone) between teams from the royal naval barracks and the first Wiltshire regiment, in which the latter won, and an exhibition of the use of muskets and hand grenades by the "Green Howards" in their old uniform of the French war were among the other interesting items. Although, as is often the case on such occasions, the audience at the opening of the tournament was remarkably small, there is no doubt the present tournament will repeat the success that has attended it in the past.

The tournament was opened by the Duke of Connaught. The route from the entrance of Olympia to the royal box was lined by dismounted troops of the second life guards under Lieut. W. Holder-ness and in the arena the two guards of honor were furnished by the royal navy and the Coldstream guards, Lieut. F. W. Bennett, R.N., and Lieut. J. V. Campbell, D. S. O., being in command.

The Duke of Connaught, who wore the uniform of a field-marshal, was accompanied by the crown prince and princess of Sweden, and by Prince Arthur and Princess Patricia of Connaught, and there were also present Prince Louis of Battenberg, first sea lord; Lieut.-Gen. Sir J. Ewart, adjutant-general; Maj.-Gen. J. S. Cowans, quartermaster-general; and Maj.-Gen. S. B. von Donop, major-general of the ordnance.

FREE STATERS OPPOSE PREMIER IN SOUTH AFRICA

(Special to the Monitor)

BLOEMFONTEIN, S. Africa—A strongly worded resolution was adopted by 47 votes to 2 at the congress of the Free State section of the South African party, declaring that General Botha had forfeited its confidence, requesting him to resign, and expressing complete confidence in General Hertzog.

Another resolution was also passed declaring that failing General Botha's resignation within one week, the representatives of the Free State province in the House of Assembly would be required to withdraw their support from the government and force a dissolution. A large number of Free State members were absent from the Congress owing to Parliament being in session.

The Heilbron branch of the South African party has received a letter from General Botha in which, after reviewing the cause of General Hertzog's dismissal, he contends that the former minister has since abundantly justified his (General Botha's) action.

BRITISH GUILD CONSIDERING WAY TO REFORM EDUCATION

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—The British Science Guild held its seventh annual meeting at the Mansion house recently, the lord mayor presiding.

The guild aims at the application of expert methods in every department of activity and the nine committees into which it is divided deal with a great variety of subjects. The guild pays particular attention to measures for the conservation of natural resources, and in the annual report regret was expressed that the dominions commission did not include a single member prominently associated with some branch of expert knowledge, who would have been of particular assistance in regard to questions touching on the conservation of natural sources of energy.

The synchronization of clocks committee referred to the fact that the postoffice had adopted the idea which the committee had advocated for a considerable time. The committee hoped that the railway companies would take advantage of the postmaster-general's offer, and that the borough councils, which had not hitherto been very sympathetic, would adopt a more progressive attitude as a result of the action of the postoffice in offering the reform at a trifling cost.

The explosives committee reported that it had considered the available sources of nitrates and the possibility of obtaining nitrates during war. They considered it of the utmost importance that they should be made in England even if the manufacture were not profitable. The committee, however, was of opinion that a commercially successful scheme was possible.

A joint committee of the education and technical education committees had been formed in view of the government's determination to reform the educational system of the country. The joint body had reported that it was the duty of local authorities to make such provision as would promote good growth during infancy and school life; that elementary instruction should be compulsory up to the age of 14 years; that attendance at continuation schools for at least six hours a week up to the age of 17 should be obligatory on all young persons not otherwise receiving proper instruction; that suitable secondary education schools should be available for all who could profit by them and would undertake to complete the full course of learning; that school certificates should serve as passports to higher education or the university, or as proof of the satisfactory completion of a school course; that technical institutions and university faculties of technology should be coordinated; that increased grants should be made to universities and other places of higher education in order to insure the reduction of fees and promote post-graduate research; that the positions of teachers of every grade should be improved, and that the cost of education should become primarily a national concern.

TRIBES RESTIVE IN SPANISH MOROCCO

(Special to the Monitor)

TANGIER, Morocco—The latest news from Tetuan in regard to the movements of the tribes is the reverse of satisfactory. It appears that the mountaineers, together with the surrounding tribes, have held meetings at which it was decided to attack the town.

The Spanish resident, General Alfau, is now at Larache conferring with the commandant of that district with a view, it is stated, of arranging a combined attack on the tribes from both sides in the event of an outbreak. Considerable uneasiness is felt at Tangier on account of the proximity of the probable sphere of hostilities.

"LORD MAYOR" TITLE DOUBTFUL

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—Dr. R. R. Sharp, records clerk of the city, says it is a question as to how the mayor of the city obtained the prefix of "lord." It was stated that the title dated back to the fourth charter of Edward III, 1354, but Dr. Sharp believes this to be incorrect. It was not until 1534 or 1535 that the title "lord mayor" came to be generally used.

IMMENSE KILN IN NEW SOUTH WALES

(Special to the Monitor)

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Aus.—A brick-making plant has been set up at Clyde, New South Wales, with a kiln that is said to be the largest in the world. The cost to the firm concerned has been upwards of £50,000 but the large kiln is likely to effect considerable savings in the cost of production. It has 36 chambers, each capable of holding 34,000 to 35,000 bricks, or a total of about 1,350,000, and, if necessary, turn out 600,000 bricks per week. About six burners will be needed to deal with the maximum output but this is only half the number that would be required for a smaller kiln.

CONSERVATIVES IN PRUSSIA WIN ELECTION FIGHT

Great Majority Considered Due to Obsolete Form of Voting, Rather Than to Any Force of Public Opinion Behind Party

INTIMIDATION IS PLEA

(Special correspondence of the Monitor)

BERLIN, Germany—The first stage in the elections for the Prussian Parliament is over and the unexpected has not come to pass. In Prussia, where indirect voting still obtains, the electors are divided into three classes and vote for "Wahlmaenner," that is to say, for delegates, who in turn vote for the parliamentary representatives; as the voting is not secret, it is not very easy for surprises to take place.

The Conservatives have an enormous majority, due undoubtedly rather to this obsolete form of voting than to the force of public opinion behind them. It is a long struggle which the national Liberals, the People's party (Volkspartei), the Radicals and Social Democrats have commenced.

On May 16, the "Wahlmaenner" were elected, and on June 3, the final elections will take place, but there is small probability of a change, as all the delegates are pledged to vote according to their party, and this means that the Conservatives will completely rule the House.

The Liberals have gained a few seats, the most important being in Danzig, but considering that the election is being fought on the question of bringing in a more up-to-date and liberal franchise bill, the gain is insignificant. It was hoped that, in view of the great issues at stake, more would have been accomplished, for, as the Frankfurter Zeitung pertinently remarks, "All further development in Prussia depends on this reform (electoral reform)."

The Conservatives are jubilant at the slight progress made by Liberalism, and regard this as a sure proof that the people of Prussia are by no means anxious to have the franchise changed, but when one compares the election returns in Prussia for the Reichstag (Imperial Parliament) with the voting for the Landtag, one is bound to admit that the reason must lie more in the method of voting than in the wishes of the people, for the discrepancies are too big to be accounted for in any other way.

For instance, in Grimmen-Greifswald and some other districts which are represented in the Reichstag by the People's party, that same party advised their followers to abstain entirely from voting in the Landtag election, owing to the economic pressure and conditions of dependence on employers there prevalent, which made it impossible for the mass of electors to vote as they wished without fear of the consequences. This only serves to prove how necessary secret and direct balloting is, and it is certain that however long it may take, nothing can permanently hinder this reform in Prussia.

BELGIAN INDUSTRY IS PROSPEROUS

(Special to the Monitor)

GHEENT, Belgium—In Belgium associations for the well-being of working men are largely in evidence and wages are continually on the increase. According to recently published statistics, capitalists also have little reason to complain. During 1912 508 new stock companies were organized, of which 389 possessed a capital of less than 1,000,000 francs. Of the remaining 119, which possessed the necessary qualifications for being listed on the stock exchange, 32 are capitalized for 1,000,000 francs, 81 for from one to five millions, 5 from 10 to 20 millions, and 2 for more than 20,000,000 francs. The aggregate capital stock of the 508 companies amounts to 66,441,310 francs.

VICTORIA GREET ENGLISH SCOUTS

(Special to the Monitor)

MELBOURNE, Vic., Aus.—A recent arrival of immigrants included a contingent of over a dozen English boy scouts, who were welcomed at the treasury buildings by the acting premier, Mr. Murray. In addressing the lads, Mr. Murray said he was glad to receive such a fine body of youthful immigrants who had been brought up to farm life.

He was greatly interested in the scout movement, which he believed helped to make manly and useful citizens. They would find plenty of honest work to do in Australia, and plenty of sport and recreation as well, and British scouts would always find a hearty welcome from their Victorian brothers.

It was intimated to Mr. Murray that the boys intended to work cooperatively on the land after gaining the requisite experience and saving sufficient money.

CHILDREN HAVE PLAY FESTIVAL AT MILLBURY

Over Eight Hundred School Pupils Take Part in Fancy and Folk Dances

MILLBURY, Mass.—The greatest play festival that the town of Millbury has ever had, was at the Torrey field on Tuesday afternoon, when 800 children entertained about 3000 people who lined Waters, Elm streets and the Torrey driveway.

The school children assembled in the respective buildings, and headed by their teachers, marched to the Union school grounds where they formed in line. From here they marched, preceded by the Millbury cadet band, to the Torrey lot where each received a bag of refreshments and an American flag.

First came a flag drill by the Providence street school. Led by Miss Ellen C. Thompson the children gave the drill, each carrying an American flag.

Then the children of Union school, led by Miss Gertrude Thompson gave a Scotch reel. They were plaid sashes.

The children of Burbank school led by Miss Augusta M. Harris gave a dance "Green sleeves." With white dresses, green sleeves and pink bows on their heads, the children executed their dance.

The children from Park hill, with Miss Julia A. Daley leading, went through a little swing song drill.

The children of grades 2, 3 and 4 of the Burbank street school gave a dance called the shoemakers' dance and they had pretty imitation of shoe-makers' aprons over their white dresses.

The exhibition work started at 2:30 o'clock with a flag drill by the boys of Burbank street.

The Providence street children under Miss Ellen C. Thompson, gave a drill. "Reap the flax," and then the wand drill dance was given. The wand drill was by Thomas H. McHugh's boys in the town hall. They wore white jerseys and gave a smooth drill.

The contests started after the mountain march and the most interest was taken in the boys' contests, along the Waters street side. All of the children had their contests on the allotted space.

Y. M. C. A. MAY SELL SITE IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Mass.—Trustees and directors of the Worcester Y. M. C. A. on Friday recommended that a price be fixed on the association's property at Elm and Pearl streets. The property is assessed at $104,500. Of this amount $83,500 is on the building and $21,000 on 10,779 feet of land.

The action of the directors and trustees is the result of the question put by Thomas J. Gannon, real estate broker, a few days ago, to Fred L. Willis, general secretary of the association, who asked for the lowest figure that the Y. M. C. A. property could be bought for.

It is understood that Mr. Gannon is acting as agent for an organization whose members are anxious to have the association building for a home.

STORE NEWS

Edward H. Bell of the Jordan Marsh Company addressed a large class of men from the store Tuesday morning on successful salesmanship.

Miss Minnie Scott, formerly of the machine-made dress section of the William Filene's Sons Company, sailed for Scotland Tuesday. She was the guest of honor at a party given by Mrs. Alice Clark to the members of the department just before she sailed.

George Kelley, formerly of Lynn, has become buyer of the shoe department of Everybody's Store. He succeeds Thomas B. O'Rourke, who resigned, as was previously stated, to buy for the basement shoe section of the Jordan Marsh Company.

Among the buyers in New York are Miss M. L. Keegan and Miss J. Griffin of the William Filene's Sons Company, C. W. Downs of the Gilchrist Company and L. Fisher of the R. H. White Company.

Vacation schedules are completed at most of the stores giving the employees two weeks' vacation with full pay. In the majority of the establishments the vacation period will begin July 5 and continue until the middle of September.

EMPLOYEES' COMFORT INCREASED

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—The Shattenberg & Robinson Company of this city has fitted up an upper floor of the store building for the use of employees. There is a recreation room comfortably furnished in mission effect with couches and leather-seated rocking chairs. The lunch room which adjoins is also well furnished. The firm has donated a hall for the use of its employees which will be renovated, and a new floor laid so it will be suitable for dancing.

SHORT TROUT CASES SETTLED

NORTH ADAMS, Mass.—The short trout cases against Isaac Everett, chief of the Berkshire Club, which have been before the local court for several weeks, were finally disposed of yesterday by Judge Phelps, who fined Everett $25 on each of three counts and filed the 147 other counts away.

MASONIC WEEK IS OPENED AT BURLINGTON, VT.

BURLINGTON, Vt.—Masonic week opened Monday morning at the Masonic Temple with a good attendance of visiting Masons. Sessions were held throughout the day by the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite bodies. Those held in the morning were of a secret nature, comprising the working of degrees in the Haswell Lodge of Perfection, J. W. Roby council, P. of J., Delta chapter of Rose Croix and the Vermont Consistory, S. P. R. S.

The most important meeting Monday was the annual session of the Vermont Council of Deliberation, which was held from two to four o'clock in the afternoon. Reports of committees were presented and there were addresses by Commander-in-Chief Marsh O. Perkins of Windsor and Gen. Edwin L. Bates of Bennington.

HISTORY BY THE WAYSIDE

Editorial Comment on the Custom of Marking Famous Sites Finds in It Much of Education

WHAT happened of historic importance anywhere in New England is practically certain to be proclaimed on the spot in a boulder, bearing the story in brief, or a bronze tablet if not a more ornate monument, or possibly a building of greater or less pretensions. If there remains a historic place without its permanent marker, it needs only to be called to the attention of the historical association, which is sure to be found hovering near, and the writing in stone or bronze will be done.

These aids to the permanence of recollection of great deeds and their brave doers have the current value of being educational. Towns like Lexington and Concord are abundantly placarded, and there is no estimating the inspiration that has been supplied by the brief annals on the scenes of their significant happenings. In the western part of the state, once the American frontier, the process of searching out the historic spots and giving them lasting identification has gone so far that local history may be studied almost completely from the monuments along the roadside. No better instance is found than that of Old Deerfield, a town rich in history of days where now the broad, heavily elm-shaded street is lined with the tablets that tell the story of the events of two centuries. A walk through Deerfield, if leisurely enough, is a course in local ancient history.

Historical enterprise out of doors is rather recent. The society that is to be credited with the markings of the Connecticut valley region was one of the earliest to be formed, yet it goes back no more than 40 years. Its founder, George Sheldon, is still its head, and he came to the enterprise as an avocation in middle life, from that time on giving himself to research and writing that has made him a high place among the historians of the country. Nor has the business of commemoration always and everywhere been thought a warranted use of time and money. Instances are not lacking of men who have so much resented the building of memorials that they have not only sneered at the people who were possessed of the idea but have actually tried to undo the work.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL FOR TORRINGTON

TORRINGTON, Conn.—At a special town meeting held here Monday for the purpose of making provision for the erection of a new high school building to replace the one recently destroyed by fire, the following vote was unanimously passed:

Voted that the town school committee together with the selectmen of the town be authorized and empowered to erect a new high school building that will accommodate the pupils attending the high and grammar schools of the town, as in their judgment will meet the necessary requirements.

DINKY ENGINES ARE SOLD

WEBSTER, Mass.—Nine dinky engines belonging to the Pinkerton company are to be taken from here by the New Haven road to the factory of the Vulcan Iron Works at Wilkesbarre, Pa. The Pinkerton Construction Company has no further use for the engines here and has made arrangements through F. O. Pinkerton, who was in Webster, with Mr. Birmingham of the Vulcan Iron Works to ship the engines back to the factory. Only three of these engines ever had a fire in them and they are nearly as good as new.

VACATION JOBS BARRED

MANCHESTER, N. H.—Owing to the passage by the last Legislature of the child labor law, which prohibits children under 14 years from working in factories, it is estimated that 4000 school children of Manchester, who usually find employment during the summer vacation in the cotton mills and shoe factories of the city, will be kept from working this year.

BURNING STEAMER NEARS PORT

Willson, Boston, and Louis J. Chandler, Springfield, supreme representatives.

FRISCO ROAD MAY BE INVESTIGATED

WASHINGTON—Affairs of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad now in receivers' hands, were considered in both houses of congress on Tuesday.

The Senate, through the Kenyon resolution, called upon the interstate commerce commission to investigate the affairs of the road and furnish information as to its relations with the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad, and the extent and the present ownership of its bonds and other securities.

A demand for an investigation by a committee of congress was made in the House by Representative Hinebaugh of Illinois. The Hinebaugh resolution would direct the commission to recommend a law to govern the reorganization of railroads generally.

BROOKLYN DOCKS TO COST $11,236,516

NEW YORK—Plans for developing Brooklyn waterfront from Brooklyn bridge to Sixty-fifth street, on which John Purroy Mitchell, Borough President McAneny and the other members of the board of estimate terminal committee have been working for many months, were outlined on Tuesday in a report to the board by Dock Commissioner Smith and the committee.

The total estimated cost of the improvements proposed is $11,236,516.

The plan provides for the "extensive development of a comprehensive marine and water terminal in which the rail transportation facilities behind the docks would be coordinated with the docks and other marine terminal facilities in one general terminal, all to be owned and controlled by the city of New York."

CONTRACTS NOT ENFORCEABLE

WASHINGTON—The supreme court refused Tuesday to review the decision of the Ohio federal courts, which, in effect, held that contracts between the United States Telephone Company with some 300 telephone exchanges in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois towns, were not enforceable because in violation of the anti-trust laws.

WORCESTER TAKES STEP TOWARD NEW MECHANICS HALL

WORCESTER, Mass.—Trustees of the Worcester County Mechanics Association were authorized Tuesday night at a meeting of the association to obtain prices and offers for the sale of the Mechanics hall building and other real property of the association, and to take the necessary steps toward cooperation with the mayor and city government and such other organizations or individuals as they deem proper for the purpose of erecting a new Mechanics hall in Worcester.

This action followed a lengthy discussion relative to the safety of the building with regard to fire and as to the advisability of expending any money for repairs or alterations on the property.

The historic old building, the pride of Worcester for a great many years, was freely criticized. It was admitted that it was a magnificent structure for its time, but the general sense of the meeting was that it is too old to be of longer service as a safe auditorium.

LARGE DREDGER WILL BE BUILT

PITTSBURG, Cal.—The Sutter Basin and Improvement Company has ordered a dredger to cost more than $90,000. The boat will carry a 200 foot boom, which is 20 feet longer than those of the Monterey and Tule King, the large two dredgers also built by the Pittsburg firm.

The new boat is to be 135 feet in length, 61 feet wide, with a water displacement of 14 feet in depth.

A new feature of boat building which will enter into the construction of the dredger is the reinforcement of the hull with structural steel.

HARRY ATWOOD MAKES FLIGHT OVER LAKE ERIE

SANDUSKY, O.—Harry N. Atwood, the Boston aviator, who left Ecorse, Mich., on Tuesday afternoon on a flight across Lake Erie, reached here at 1:35 this morning after a long trip across the lake. Rescue parties had put out to look for him.

A report received from Detroit, Mich., said that Mr. Atwood passed the Livingston channel at the Detroit river about 3 p. m., and headed out over the lake. All efforts to obtain trace of him had been unavailing up to midnight.

When Atwood left Ecorse, a short distance down the Detroit river from Detroit, the weather was clear and calm, and the aviator thought he could make the trip over the western end of Lake Erie in record time. His failure to reach this city had caused alarm for his safety.

Had Atwood followed the course on returning from Sandusky that he took in flying toward Detroit last week, he should have passed over Put-in-Bay island late this afternoon. The course from Ecorse is about 60 miles.

RARE FOSSIL IS SENT TO MUSEUM

WASHINGTON—An eland has been sent to the national museum by Professor Gidley from Cumberland.

It is said that the eland discovered by Professor Gidley is closely related to that of Africa. In addition to the eland, Professor Gidley has discovered specimens of wolves, porcupines, and an extinct bear, and parts of other animals.

PRESIDENT'S WIFE BUYS PICTURES

Two of the most beautiful sold were purchased by the President's wife, including "Late November at Piney Branch" and "Laurel Tangle at Rock Creek Bridge."

MILLIONS SPENT ON NEW CHURCHES

ST. PAUL—In 1913 St. Paul built its record number of churches. The estimated cost of new churches, built or being built this year, runs close to $4,000,000, not to mention the improvements that many churches are making.

SUBMARINE AFTER RECORD

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Equipped with telegraphic connection with the mainland, six men are at the bottom of Long Beach harbor in the new Gage submarine boat Benton. They intend to remain there 36 hours and thus exceed the submerged record now held by the government submarine Octopus. The Benton went down at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, and will come up, according to arrangements, at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

U. S. DELEGATES TO MARITIME LAW CONGRESS NAMED

Secretaries Bryan and Redfield Agree on Envoys to Conference on Code Unification at Brussels

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Bryan and Secretary of Commerce Redfield have agreed in the selection of Henry G. Ward of New York city, United States circuit judge, second circuit; A. J. Montague of Richmond, Va.; George Denegre, of New Orleans, La.; and Edwin W. Smith of Pittsburgh as delegates in behalf of the United States to the international conference on the unification of maritime law, which will meet at Brussels probably next September. Gaston de Leval, technical adviser of the American legation at Brussels, will be assigned to aid the delegation. Governor Montague and Mr. Smith acted as American delegates at the conference of 1910.

The coming conference will deal with the question of the limitation of the liability of ship owners, which has assumed international importance in view of the great marine disasters of last year. Considerable progress toward a uniform agreement upon the laws which should govern the pecuniary liability of ship owners has already been made and it is expected that at the coming conference definite conclusions will be reached which will be communicated to maritime governments for the consideration of their congresses and parliaments next year. The conference will also consider the subject of uniform laws on maritime liens and mortgages.

BILL WOULD SEGREGATE CLERKS
WASHINGTON—Representative Aswell of Louisiana introduced a bill Tuesday to separate white government clerks and employees from negroes.

Mr. Taft Against Filipino Independence

Replying to Plea of Manuel L. Quezon for Freedom, at New York Dinner, Former President Voices Opposition

ADVISES DEMOCRATS

NEW YORK—Manuel L. Quezon, delegate from the Philippine islands in the House of Representatives, made an eloquent plea for the independence of the islands at the first annual dinner of the newly formed Philippine Society at the Hotel Plaza Tuesday night. This society is devoted to the establishment of "a more sympathetic intercourse between the people of the United States and of the Philippines."

After Mr. Quezon had finished his arguments for independence former President Taft and Bishop Charles H. Brent of the Philippines told the 200 diners that the Filipinos are not yet ready for self government.

The former President advised the Democratic party to send a commission to the islands and look the situation over before any action involving the independence of the Philippines.

Mr. Quezon quoted Woodrow Wilson to support his argument. He also quoted Mr. Taft in a manner to show that he, as a Philippine authority, had once spoken in sympathy with the proposition of immediate national independence for the islands. Mr. Taft said that his remarks had been taken from a context which showed he had been voicing no such sympathy.

"And," said Mr. Taft, when his chance came, "it is Woodrow Wilson who, in his 'Congressional History of the United States,' says that 'self-government is not something you can give.' Self-government is the character of a people and until they acquire that character they are not capable of self-government. He says it is our duty to continue to give them the best government we can, to see if they can acquire that character which means self-government."

"They say we are exploiting the Philippines," continued Mr. Taft. "Exploiting? I appeal to the history of colonial government the world over for a record of supervision as unselfish. We are not merely trustees of the islands for the educated people alone. We are trustees for the whole 7,000,000 of them. We are there to see that the whole 7,000,000 get real freedom, real liberty and there is grave ground for expectation that if we went out of the islands now liberty would not be preserved as we now preserve it, for all the people. We have got to educate them. Are we not doing it? We have got to give them gradually their lessons in self-government. Are we not doing it? Step by step we are seeking to give them by experience that character which, if it abides, is self-government."

CONANT STATUE TAKEN TO SALEM

At 7 o'clock this morning the bronze statue of Roger Conant, which was removed yesterday from the grounds of the Museum of Fine Arts, was started for Salem on an auto truck. It is to be placed on a 60-ton boulder at Washington square and Brown street, Salem, where it will be unveiled in the presence of members of the Conant Family Association, June 17.

The statue is the work of Henry Hudson Kitchin of Quincy and was lent to the Boston museum last January by the Conant Family Association.

NINTH REGIMENT AT POINT OF PINES

AUTO MEN HAVE LITTLE GUESTS

Hundred of Boston children are spending the day on the white sands of Nantasket beach today as guests of the Boston Automobile Dealers Association. The program includes a dinner for the children at the Hotel Nantasket. The outing is in charge of Chester I. Campbell, manager of the Boston Automobile shows. More than 250 automobiles and several auto trucks carried the party from the city this morning. The customary parade of past years was omitted, the autos proceeding direct to Nantasket so soon as filled with the children.

MAYOR WITTEPENN IS DEFEATED

NEW YORK—Five commissioners were elected in Jersey City on Tuesday to carry on the commission form of government for which the electors voted last April. Mayor H. Otto Wittenn and his friends were defeated and Mr. Wittenn will be retired from office next Tuesday. It is said this means his retirement as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, but Mr. Wittenn declared he will continue in the field.

CUSTOMS CHANGE POSTPONED

WASHINGTON—The Senate Tuesday passed a bill, extending from July 1 to Jan. 1, 1914, the redistricting and reorganization of the customs service. Secretary McAdoo proposed the change.

HAWAII SUGAR MEN SAY THEY SPENT $100,000

Senate Lobby Investigating Committee Questions Former Governor C. R. Carter and Sidney Ballou, Agent of the Planters

COMBINATION DENIED

WASHINGTON—Further inquiry into Hawaiian sugar planting conditions was in order when the Senate lobby investigating committee resumed its hearing today.

George R. Carter, former Governor of Hawaii, and Sidney Ballou, two of the men who have conducted the campaign of Hawaiian producers in Washington to retain a duty on sugar, for six hours Tuesday outlined to the Senate lobby investigating committee their activities here and elsewhere.

Mr. Carter testified that he paid nothing and received only his expenses. Mr. Ballou said he was the regular agent of the sugar producers in Washington, with a salary of $12,000 a year and $3000 a year for expenses.

Both agreed that about $100,000 raised by planters had been spent by the sugar people in their campaign against free sugar, but denied that there had been any tangible combination between the United States cane and beet and Hawaiian cane producers with a common fund directed to influencing legislation. The session at times grew warm.

Former Governor Carter declared that an audience with President Wilson for the Hawaiian sugar men had been denied by Secretary Tumulty, and that a member of the Senate finance committee in charge of sugar had proposed that they be given a hearing "after the passage of the bill." Mr. Ballou said later that Senator Gore had made this statement.

Mr. Ballou was questioned at length by Senator Reed about labor conditions in Hawaii. Senator Reed wanted to know if the Hawaiian planters were not anxious for a return of the penal labor system. He read a statement to this effect from what he said was a "suppressed report" by Daniel J. Keefe, former commissioner of immigration.

"There are about as many gentlemen in Hawaii who favor a return to that system as there are gentlemen in the South who favor a return to slavery," answered the witness.

DENOMINATION'S WORK EXTENDED IN SPANISH FIELD

Congregational Churches in New Mexico and Texas Crowded by Refugees From Over Border—Work Growing

TEACHERS SENT OUT

Two new schools have been opened in the Spanish field during the year, according to the ninety-seventh annual report of the directors of the Congregational Educational Society, which held its annual meeting this morning in Pilgrim hall, one school being at Marquez, New Mexico, and one in El Paso, Texas. People in Marquez bought land and presented it to the society, giving time and labor to erect the building. Since the revolution, Mexicans have come over the border in such numbers that the Mexican Congregational church is too small and the society is constantly sending teachers and workers.

Graduates from the schools managed by the Congregational Education Society are going to the Rio Grande Industrial school, Albuquerque, New Mexico. It is expected that a dormitory for girls may be erected there this summer. Educational work has been done in Arizona, Colorado, Southern California and Utah among the Spanish speaking people.

There are secondary schools which have been aided by the society in Nebraska, the Dakotas, Montana and Missouri. Redfield College in South Dakota has completed a campaign for endowment to which the German churches pledged $100,000 and the Education Society $15,000, as a result of the conditional gift of $30,000 from James J. Hill.

Students to the number of 182 have received assistance this year from the society. Receipts from contributions and bequests amount to $93,743, a gain of $14,203 over last year.

M. V. M. MEN TO BE INSTRUCTED

Officers of the Coast Artillery Corps, M. V. M., will leave Boston Saturday morning on the quartermaster's steamer, General Anderson, for Fort Warren to attend a four days' school for officers, under instructors from the regular army.

Each officer will provide himself with a canvas working suit. The evening lectures by the instructors will be on the subjects of "Camp Sanitation and First Aid," "Problems on the Defense of Boston Harbor" and "The Submarine Mine Defense of Boston."

COMMITTEE TO CENSOR PICTURES GIVEN TO SCHOOL

Membership Decided by Board at Lynn—Decorations to Be Selected for Artistic Value

LYNN, Mass.—Pictures which are presented to the public schools of Lynn must in the future be approved by a committee, which was appointed by the school board last night as follows: Charles H. Woodbury, the Rev. C. Thurston Chase, Charles A. Lawrence, Dr. Herbert Newhall and Mrs. George P. Faunce. Works have been presented to the schools in the past which, in the minds of some, are not fitting from an artistic point of view.

The new committee was appointed a month ago on recommendation of the Lynn Art Club, but it was found that the manner in which the appointment was made would give the committee authority over the school board on the questions of schoolhouse decorations.

Last night a rule was established whereby the new committee will be under the authority of the board.

CAMPAIGN FOR VOCATION WORK

SEATTLE, Wash.—Plans for vocational training in the state are being made by Mrs. Josephine Preston, state superintendent of schools. The feature of this plan will be the state wide children's fair. This will be held in Spokane in October.

The plan which Mrs. Preston has devised for the work is to divide the counties into different districts, the largest school in each to be the center.

Each district is to hold a fair and the exhibits from this fair will be chosen to take to the county fair and from the county fairs exhibits will be taken to the state fair, which is to be annual, and which will be held in cities of the state.

C. C. Thomason is organizing the work.

BARBARA FIRST IN AT BERMUDA

HAMILTON, Bermuda.—The Barbara II, owned by W. N. Duncan, of the Staten Island Yacht Club, was the first of the motorboats competing in the race from Philadelphia to Bermuda to reach this port today. The Barbara crossed the finish line at 3:25 a. m. and continued on to Hamilton where the crew came ashore.

It is estimated that the Barbara's elapsed time for the trip is 85h. 14m. 20s., but the winner of the race cannot be determined until after the Dream and Toesha have arrived. The Dream has an allowance of 10h. 44m. 36s., and the Toesha 13h. 6m. 36s.

UNION COLLEGE ADDS TO FACULTY

JACKSON, Tenn.—Dr. R. M. Inlow, president of Union University, announces that faculty for next session. Dr. A. T. Barrett, graduate of Rochester University, will teach education and mathematics. Dr. Joseph Clay Walker who has been taking post graduate work at Heidelberg, Ger., will teach modern language.

The new $100,000 administration building will be ready for occupancy in September.

POSTMASTERS NAMED

WASHINGTON—A few postmaster-ships for New England were in the list of nominations forwarded to the Senate Tuesday by President Wilson. Three nominations are made for Massachusetts: John H. Kane, at Lexington; John H. Flavel, at Hanover; James H. Roach, at Winchester. Menander Denett is nominated for Lewiston, Me., and Irving H. Hicks at Lewistown, N. H.

STUDENTS TO MAKE UP STRIKE

According to James D. Howlett, principal of the Medford high school, every member of the senior class who went on a strike Monday morning will be obliged to make up that day's work and spend every afternoon of this week in the recitation rooms instead of being dismissed with the rest of the school at 1 o'clock.

TWO MEN ARE RESCUED

RECEPTION FOR MR. BRYAN

When Secretary of State Bryan arrives in Boston June 16 he will be given a reception by the Democratic state committee, of which Thomas P. Riley is chairman, and hundreds of Democrats from every section of the state have signified their intention of being present.

NATION'S MUSIC COSTS THREE TIMES ARMY AND NAVY

SARATOGA, N. Y.—Nearly $800,000,000 is spent annually by Americans on music, according to figures submitted to the annual meeting of the New York State Music Teachers Association by John C. Freund. The report gave the following annual expenditures: Opera, $8,000,000; church music, $30,000,000; orchestras in theatres, vaudeville and motion picture houses, $30,000,000; military and brass bands of all kinds, $35,000,000; conservatories, schools and private teachers, $175,000,000; American students, expenses and tuition abroad, $7,500,000. The expenditures in the musical industries amount to $230,000,000 annually, the speaker said. Analyzing these figures, Mr. Freund said that this country spent every year for music three times the amount spent on the army and navy.

SENATE BOARD HEARS HISTORY OF COAL STRIKE

Story of Martial Law and Military Court in West Virginia Is Told to Committee in Course of First Day's Formal Inquiry

MINE OWNERS' DENIALS

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—The story of how martial law was declared and enforced in the coal mining districts of Paint and Cabin creeks, and how a military tribunal, which was at once judge and jury, was substituted for the civil court, was told here today to the five members of the Senate committee on education and labor.

The responsible military officials of the state, with all of the records showing the work of the military courts for more than a year, told their stories.

The officials examined included George S. Wallace, judge advocate general of the national guards; Charles D. Elliott, adjutant-general; Maj. Joseph S. Pratt and Capt. Charles Morgan and Sam L. Walker. They were to be followed on the stand by the miners, and in the course of the day "Mother" Jones will tell her own story of her arrest and court-martial, when she defied the troops and insisted on making speeches to the striking miners.

Former Representative Joseph Gaines testified that at all times during the existence of the military courts there had been in existence ready for any work that might be brought before it three civil courts in the county competent to pass upon all cases. The regular courts had not been closed at any time, he swore, and were trying cases while the military organizations, commissioned by the Governor superseded them. Last night J. Bruce Reid, a newspaper correspondent, testified. He said a man named Frank Nance, who talked to a captain of the militia, was arrested 10 days later and after martial law had been declared, was tried on the charge of interfering with an officer. Nance was sentenced to seven years. He was later turned loose by the Governor, however.

When Senator Borah read into the record the extracts from the state constitution which he insisted were the real bottom of the case, the attorneys representing the mine owners and the state officials did not openly object. Today it developed why this was so. In West Virginia the process of habeas corpus cannot be suspended.

Evidence has been developed to show that every single provision of the constitution so enumerated was violated by the state officials.

Justification is the plea of the mine owners. In lengthy "answers" presented to the committee the mine-owners as a whole set up a plea of not guilty. The United Mine Workers are attacked as responsible for the entire situation.

The various alleged assaults beginning with May 29, 1912, are then enumerated at length, the miners being blamed for them. Specific and positive denial is then made by the mine owners that poonage exists and that there has been any interference with postoffice facilities. Responsibility for the martial law is placed on the shoulders of Governors Glascock and Hatfield.

REVENUE AGENTS CRITICIZED

CHICAGO—The United States grand jury, which for four months has been investigating the tax compromise between internal revenue agents and oleomargarine manufacturers, returned a report to United States District Judge Landis Tuesday, criticizing revenue officials.

RAILROAD STOCK CONTROL URGED

WASHINGTON—A bill to give the interstate commerce commission control over all issues of stocks by railroads or other common carriers was presented Tuesday by Senator Lewis of Illinois. It would require railroads to make satisfactory showing of value to justify any increases in issue of securities.

RAILROAD RATE FINDINGS TO GO OVER ONE WEEK

Additional Light on Valuation Methods Is Anticipated in Opinions Expected on Last Session of Supreme Court

DECISION IS ANALYZED

WASHINGTON—Decisions of the United States supreme court, in most of the Missouri, Arkansas, Oregon, Kentucky and West Virginia railroad rate cases are expected June 16, the last decision day before the summer recess. Justice Hughes was absent from the court session Tuesday and is understood to be preparing the awaited decisions.

These decisions are expected to throw additional light on the methods of valuing railroad property for rate making purposes, a subject dealt with in the Minnesota cases.

They are being awaited anxiously by the interstate commerce commission, which is starting on the task of making a physical valuation of all the railroad property in the United States.

On account of the widespread public interest in the Minnesota decision, the Senate Tuesday ordered the printing of 10,000 copies of public documents.

All sorts of opinions prevailed Tuesday as to where the victory rested in the Minnesota decisions. Minnesota state officials in dispatches expressed their pleasure over the result, and Attorney-General McReynolds and members of the interstate commerce commission said they were fully satisfied. The prospect of Congress taking charge of state rates affecting interstate commerce indirectly lent encouragement to the railroads that they would escape from regulation by 48 state commissions.

BRITISH ARMOR TRUST ALLEGED BY LABOR PAPER

Canadian Warship Offer Called Coincident With Opening of Vickers Yard at Montreal

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—Herr Liebknecht's revelations in the German Reichstag on the cause of the war scares have been followed by numerous articles appearing in the press exposing the existence of armor trusts and their connection with the governments of the countries in which they flourish. None of these is more circumstantial than the article by J. T. Newbold on the British armor trust appearing in the Labour Leader.

Mr. Newbold states that each of the five great firms, the predominant partners of the British trust, is linked with subsidiary companies, and through those companies with one another, and that they are similarly linked up with firms abroad, and are building warships not only for the British government, but for the alleged potential enemies of the country. Also, that many iron, steel, coal, electric supply, shipping and transport companies are subsidiary to the "trust."

He further says that the Canadian government's offer of a gift of warships to the British navy was coincident with the opening of Messrs. Vickers' yard at Montreal; and that new works, which are being established at Sydney, Cape Breton Isle, by the Canadian Shipbuilding Company, Ltd. (subsidiary to John Brown & Co., Ltd., of Sheffield and Clydebank) will, according to Allan Burgoyne, be "probably the largest shipbuilding plant in either Great Britain or America."

The Labour Leader also states that since the present government came into office a great deal more naval construction work has gone into the yards of the trust in proportion to the work executed in the royal dockyards. Since 1905 the percentage of naval work done in royal dockyards "is fallen from 26.5 to 11.5, whilst the proportion done in trust yards has grown from 73.5 to 88.5 per cent.

DANVERS ELECTS SCHOOL MASTER

DANVERS, Mass.—At the annual meeting of the Danvers school board William A. Spooner, who has been acting principal of the high school was elected principal at a salary of $1500, increased from $1200. Cyril F. Randall, principal of the Maple street school, resigned. The vacancy was not filled. Superintendent of Schools H. C. Sanborn and all of the other teachers were reelected.

ELECTRICAL MEN MEET

Twenty attended the meeting and dinner of the Massachusetts Association of Electrical Contractors held last night at the Boston City Club. F. A. Duffield of Philadelphia, traveling representative of the National Electrical Contractors' Association, was the principal speaker. The committee in charge consisted of Pres. A. H. Andrews and H. D. Temple of Worcester.

Simmons Girls Get Degrees Senate Upholds Bond Bill Veto

Bachelor of Science Honor Conferred on 123 Seniors at Commencement—Students in Other Courses in Class

CLOSING DAY EVENTS

Bachelor of science degrees were awarded to 123 graduates and a master of science degree to Miss Estelle Hecker at the commencement exercises of Simmons College today. In the list there were 39 from the department of household economics, 33 from secretarial studies, 38 from library research, three from general research and 10 from the social work department.

Marched into the Church of the Disciples on Peterboro street by Dr. George Preston Bacon of the physics department the seniors assembled to hear the commencement address by the Rev. George A. Gordon, minister of the Old South church. They marched from the chapel entrance to the church, followed by the entire faculty and instructors of the college.

By special request the Simmons choir, under the direction of Miss Mabel W. Daniels, sang the Latin hymn rendered last year: "Veni, Creator Spiritus."

Dr. Gordon had for his subject "The Vision of the Way." He discussed the significance of visions that had come to men in various periods of their career, and said: "There is no growth in all the world so beautiful, so sacred, so momentous as the blossoming of these intuitions of the right way, these beautiful and blazing images of the human life that should be."

At the conclusion of the church service the luncheon and meeting of the Alumnae Association takes place in the College building. A reception by President Lefavour to the alumnae and friends in South hall tonight closes the commencement proper.

The seniors will give a luncheon in South hall tomorrow.

Following is a list of the graduates who received the degree of bachelor of science from the college:

PACKING INQUIRY REFERRED

WASHINGTON—Investigation of the interests of American beef packers in the cattle industry of Argentina was sought in a resolution introduced Tuesday by Representative O'Shaunessy of Rhode Island, who asked the House to direct Secretary Bryan to report on the development of American corporations or interests there since 1905. The resolution was referred to the foreign affairs committee.

SCHOOL SPEAKERS SELECTED

STONEHAM, Mass.—School authorities here have changed the manner of selecting graduation speakers and have elected one honor pupil from each course. Instead of speakers at large, Miss Dorothy Richardson will be the speaker for the classical course, Miss Gladys Gilbert for the scientific course and Miss Nettie Elliot for the business course. The class yesterday elected Raymond W. Longmore as prophet and Miss Frances Hewitt historian.

STRIKERS SEEK MR. PELLETIER

For the purpose of giving evidence on alleged violations of the labor advertising laws by the Mead-Morrison Company of Cambridge an attempt will be made today by the officers of the striking boilermakers committee to arrange a conference with District Attorney Pelletier. It is said four men are ready to testify to receiving letters answering advertisements in which no mention of labor difficulties was made.

SENATORS BEGIN WORK PREPARING BILL FOR CAUCUS

Chairman Simmons Says Week Will Be Required to Get Tariff Measure Into Shape for Consideration by Majority

MINOR CHANGES MADE

WASHINGTON—Ten Senate Democrats met today in the finance committee room to piece together the thousand details of the bill for the last time before they are to explain it to the party caucus.

"I think that a week will be required to finish the work of the majority members," said Chairman Simmons today. "We hope to get through before the committee and the public what they have been unsuccessfully trying to do for months—their arguments for a sugar duty."

Senator Kern's prediction was that the tariff bill would get to the Senate floor by June 23.

"Then we will begin sessions at 10 a. m. and continue sittings until 11 p. m.," the majority leader said. He refused to make any prediction as to date of a final vote on the measure.

One of the acts of the Senate finance subcommittee in charge of the administrative features of the Underwood tariff bill Tuesday was recommendation to eliminate the anti-dumping clause which would exact additional duties on imports sold in this country at less than the foreign market price.

Wilson Influence Denied

The charge, which has been repeated often in the past two weeks, that President Wilson has exerted undue influence upon senators in behalf of the tariff bill as it came from the House, was sharply denied Tuesday by Senator F. M. Simmons, chairman of the committee on finance, which is in control of tariff legislation. Mr. Simmons admitted that the President had expressed "strong views and convictions" as to free sugar and free wool, without going into President's methods of persuasion. But on all other items in the tariff bill Mr. Simmons said that he did not know of a single case in which the President had expressed an opinion unless his opinion had been solicited.

"So much has been said in the press concerning the President's alleged connection with certain amendments recommended by certain subcommittees of the finance committee that is misleading and erroneous," said Mr. Simmons, "that in order that the public may understand the real facts, I wish to say that while the President has expressed to the members of the finance committee, as he is reported to have expressed to members of the ways and means committee when the bill was in the House, strong views and convictions with respect to placing on the free list both wool and sugar, he has not, so far as I know, expressed any views as to the other provisions of the bill except when his opinion has been asked, and has not in any way attempted to dictate to the committee. The view current in the newspapers to the effect that a subcommittee of

FOREST PARK BALTIMORE TO CAPITAL URGED

Political Officials and Business Organizations Indorse Plan for Turning Land Between Cities into National Reserve

TIMBERLAND IN TRACT

BALTIMORE—Encouraged by enthusiasm displayed toward the project by leading business organizations of Washington, William M. Elliott and B. Howard Haman of this city are planning to incorporate an organization the object of which will be to urge on Congress the establishment of a forest reserve between this city and the national capital.

According to a despatch received by the News from Washington, the project is being pressed by some of the most influential men of Washington, including a present commissioner of the District of Columbia and his predecessor in office. A committee of the Washington Board of Trade has begun an investigation which will include a general survey of the territory between the two cities, proposed as a site for the reserve. Options will be obtained by this committee, says the despatch, and estimates made of the cost of property by condemnation.

The scheme has been indorsed by the Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants and Manufacturers Association of this city and the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce of Washington.

The reserve, it is said, could be made to rival any of the great forests of France. Mr. Elliott has already made surveys, and his proposition contemplates the government utilizing about 100,000 acres of natural timber land extending from Bladensburg, on the district line, northeasterly, half way to Baltimore, and easterly to Annapolis. The territory is described as typical forest land on which about 47 varieties of tree life are now growing. The territory is watered by the Anacostia and Potomac rivers.

The value of the territory it is proposed to annex for the reserve ranges from $8 to $25 an acre, so that the entire tract, it is said, could be obtained at an appropriation of $2,500,000.

LABOR MEN EXPECTING RELEASE

Expectations are held by the trade unions of Greater Boston that Michael J. Young, first vice-president, and Frank Higgins, organizer of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers Union, arrested in connection with the dynamite conspiracy case, will be released in about a week. More than the $80,000 needed to bail them has been raised, it is said, and papers are already on their way to Ft. Leavenworth where the men are confined.

HORSES RESCUED FROM FIRE

Apparatus from Boston, Brookline and Cambridge responded to an alarm of fire sent in from the John E. Cousens Coal Company's elevator, 791 Commonwealth avenue last night, and after an hour's work the fire was extinguished. The cause of the fire was an overheated boiler at the bottom of the hoisting tower in the center of the plant. Thirty-two horses were rescued from a nearby barn by employees of the plant.

MR. GARY TELLS OF PURCHASE OF OLIVER MILLS

U. S. Steel Chairman Denies Agreement Is Inimical to Competition—Says Individual Cases Required Different Contracts

HE IS CROSS-EXAMINED

NEW YORK—The cross-examination of E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, was continued today when the hearing in the government's dissolution suit was resumed.

Judge Dickinson, for the government, questioned the witness closely as to the purchase of the Oliver Iron Works. He pointed out a clause in the sales agreement whereby the Oliver company agreed not to enter the ore business.

Judge Gary was then asked if he believed that was fostering competition. He said that everything depended on conditions as they existed in individual cases. He said that in his opinion the agreement entered into with the Oliver company was legitimate and proper.

SENATOR HOLLIS SEES PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON—New England appointments were discussed today in a conference between President Wilson and Senator Hollis of New Hampshire. While no decision was reached, the President wanted to have the new Democratic senator's views.

Two of the most contested offices on the New England patronage list are the internal revenue at Portsmouth, N. H., and the New Hampshire naval officer at Boston. Senator Hollis is expected to make an announcement soon relative to the New England patronage.

CONSERVATORY PROGRAM READY

Commencement exercises of the New England Conservatory of Music, Huntington avenue and Gainsboro street, will begin Thursday evening, June 19 with a concert of members of the graduating class in Jordan hall. The senior class reception will be Friday evening, June 20, at 8:30 o'clock. Class day exercises will be held in Jordan hall, at 2:30 p. m., June 23, and the commencement exercises in Jordan hall Tuesday, June 24 at 2:30 o'clock followed by the Alumni reunion and dinner at Hotel Vendome in the evening.

STATION AGENTS MAKE DEMANDS

Unless the wage schedule and other changes are granted 800 station agents on the Boston & Maine Railroad affiliated with the Order of Railroad Station Agents they will strike, according to an official of the order. The question will come before a committee of employees and William F. Ray of Boston general superintendent of the road, at a conference tomorrow.

CITY WORKMEN RESISTED

Maintaining their right to occupy the premises at 346 Spring street, Roxbury, where they have kept a lunch room, Ernest and Louis Kanavos resisted the attempts of city workmen yesterday to begin work of demolition. Last fall the city preempted the property to make way for a sewer.

STRIKING BARBERS ARE STILL TRYING TO END TROUBLE

Conferences Are Scheduled Between Committees of Idle Men and Employers for Agreement

Conferees between committees of striking barbers and their employers will be held this afternoon in an effort to reach an agreement which both sides will submit at mass meetings at night for final action. Halls near each other, one at 694 and the other 730 Washington street, have been selected by both parties so that any possible complications that may arise through the reports of committees may be speedily adjusted.

The I. W. W. strikers Tuesday rejected the offer of the Hub Master Barbers Association by a unanimous vote. Officers of the I. W. W. barbers said that the terms offered by the Hub Master Barbers Association were refused because the masters do not wish to recognize the I. W. W. or place the I. W. W. shop card in their windows for apprehension of losing trade.

On holidays which fall on Saturday they declared the employers want them to work until 4 p. m., but they want to stop at 1. When holidays fall on other days than Saturday the men do not want to work at all and the employers desire to keep open until 1.

The master barbers offer $12 a week, and the strikers want $13. The I. W. W. men say that they have been getting $12 a week in many cases and tips in addition. It is their belief that, since most of the employers have raised the price of shaving or haircutting, and many others intend to do so, they will earn less under the offer made by employers than formerly.

A settlement with Charlestown employers is predicted by I. W. W. officers. They said there are about 100 shops there, and employers will meet the strike committee this morning. If a settlement is reached they said that the men will go back to work at once.

FOSS STRIKERS PLAN BENEFIT

Strike leaders representing the employees of the Sturtevant Blower and the Becker Machine Companies' plants of Hyde Park are to give an entertainment tonight for the benefit of the strike fund, but will not hold a meeting until Friday afternoon since they have rejected the proposition for an investigation offered by the state board of conciliation and arbitration. At the next gathering plans to continue the strike for the 20 per cent increase will be discussed.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION DELEGATES TO BEGIN TOUR

Boston will be represented by a delegation of 60 in the company that leaves Thursday afternoon on the steamship Canopic for the world's Sunday school convention, which will be held at Zurich, Switzerland, July 8 to 15. From Pennsylvania 60 delegates and from Illinois 80, while smaller parties go from other parts of the country.

George W. Penniman is in charge of the party from Boston.

W. J. Weir, state secretary for Maine, and Mrs. Weir, will sail on the Scotian from Montreal June 21 for London, joining the party of seven from Maine on the Canopic.

The itinerary will be through the Mediterranean, with a visit to the Azores, Madeira, Gibraltar, and Algiers, proceeding to Naples and thence to Pompeii, Rome, Pisa, Florence, Venice, Milan, the Italian lakes, and St. Gothard pass. Eight days will be spent in Zurich and the return trip will include a tour of German cities and the Rhine valley. The first return party will sail from Liverpool on Aug. 2.

PORT BOARD TO TAKE E. BOSTON RAILROAD PIER

Eastern Company's Terminal to Be Got for Ship Terminal by Court Process—Plans for Large and Modern Terminal

COST ABOUT $750,000

Directors of the port plan to take by eminent domain the Eastern railroad property at East Boston for a new railroad-steamship terminal. They have asked the attorney general to prepare the necessary papers to effect this transfer from the Boston & Maine railroad. Fully a dozen different schemes for the layout of the pier and dock space have been under consideration by the engineers of the directors. It is probable that a 900 to 1000-foot pier will be constructed with docks on both sides.

Such an arrangement would give ample room for two large ships or one large liner and two vessels of moderate size according to Hugh Bancroft, chairman of the directors. General Bancroft said today that the acquisition of the property was the first consideration and that when that had been accomplished the directors would attend to the plans and erection.

The new pier will be similar in design to the Cunard piers of the Boston & Albany railroad terminal that adjoins the property to the east, and being of lighter construction than the new Commonwealth pier at South Boston, it will not be on such an expensive basis as that.

The Eastern railroad property is not now connected by rail with the Boston & Albany, since that road refused to join in eliminating grade crossings on its line from Everett around to East Boston and withdrew from this side of the harbor. The Grand Junction branch of the Boston & Albany makes the detour around the harbor front connecting with its modern terminal close by.

The directors plan to make this first state pier on the East Boston side open to all the railroads, and the latter have agreed to transfer freight thither without extra charge. The Boston & Albany will make the same rates to this pier as to its own, while the New Haven and Boston & Maine do the same where their earnings are 10 cents or more a hundred pounds.

The Boston & Albany has expressed its willingness to have the facilities of its 1,000,000 bushel grain elevator extended to the new state terminal. The grain galleries on the new pier will then be connected with the belt conveyor system of the Albany elevator avoiding the necessity of the directors' building an elevator and incidentally saving a considerable amount of money. The Albany elevator is a modern structure and cost $1,000,000.

The directors believe that the location is an excellent one for the nucleus of a state-owned waterfront on the East Boston side. They say that a beginning must be made some time and deem this property worth over $900,000 can be put into shape for about $750,000.

LIBRARY CORNER STONE TO BE LAID

Exercises for the laying of the corner stone of the new Harry Elkins Widener Memorial library at Harvard will be held on the morning of Phi Beta Kappa day, June 16, at 11 o'clock. Mrs. George B. Widener will be present.

President Lowell, Professor Coolidge of the history department, who is director of the university library, and Joseph Francis Swayze, president of the Phi Beta Kappa Society of Massachusetts, will speak. A chorus from the university choir under the direction of Dr. A. T. Davidson and the Harvard Glee Club will sing.

FREE CATTLE PLAN PROTESTED

WASHINGTON—Indications that Democrats from the Northwest may vigorously oppose the free cattle and wheat provisions inserted in the Wilson-Underwood bill by the Senate committee were given today when Representative Hammond of Minnesota voiced his protest against this action to President Wilson. Mr. Hammond is a member of the ways and means committee. He said that already he had received scores of protests from his section against the wheat and cattle items, assessed 10 per cent in the House draft of the bill.

PLANS TO BURY WIRES IN CITY

PHILADELPHIA—Chief Pike, of the electrical bureau, has secured the help of Mayor Blankenburg to have the city's wires placed underground, and to replace many of the old poles that now carry wires overhead. The electrical chief is trying to get money for these purposes in the appropriation to his bureau for 1914.

It is planned to construct underground conduits at the rate of 10 miles per year. The conduit system would begin at city hall, and would be extended outward. Chief Pike hopes to renew 400 poles next year.

lowed too liberal issuance of stock and bonds unsecured by mortgages.

Many legislators have awaited action of the Senate on this veto as indicative of its action on the Washburn bill, should the Governor veto it, as it is expected he will.

These reports of committees were read:

Municipal Finance—An act to amend the law in relation to overdue taxes so as to extend the time to Jan. 1, 1915, when interest at 6 per cent shall begin on taxes unpaid.

Also a bill to define the authority of assessors relative to overlay taxes. Codification of the gas and electricity laws was postponed for action tomorrow.

Both branches of the Legislature plan to have two "legislative days" today with a view to expediting business. Morning and afternoon sessions are to be held, each session counting as a "day." This enables the Legislature to accomplish in one day business for which it would ordinarily take two days.

Many of the House members believe that the Governor is going to veto today the "nine hours in eleven" bill. It is reported that he has received a private opinion from the supreme court that the bill is unconstitutional. The veto is expected to be based on the declared unconstitutional provision.

A veto message on the western trolley merger bill also is expected to go to the House today.

ALLIES PREPARE FOR STRIFE BUT POWERS WATCH

Although Bulgaria and Serbia Are Facing Each Other, the Former May Yield to Europe Which Is Working for Peace

SITUATION CRITICAL

Special Cable to the Monitor from its European Bureau

LONDON—Serbia has not yet received a reply from Bulgaria to her request for a revision of the treaty.

As previously cabled, feeling in Bulgaria remains adverse to revision. Nevertheless Bulgaria may ultimately consider it her best policy to submit to the representation of the powers that if the allies fight they do so against the wishes and advice of the powers.

Meanwhile Bulgaria and Serbia declare their intention to participate in the Salonika conference. Nevertheless warlike preparations continue and the situation remains critical.

It is not impossible that the intervention of the powers will take the form of an urgent note emphasizing the necessity of demobilization as the natural result of signing the treaty of peace.

SCHOOL BOARD TELLS MAYOR OF ORDER OVER VETO

Among several letters received by Mayor Fitzgerald today was one from the school committee notifying him of the orders passed Tuesday night.

Regrets that they found it advisable to pass them over his objection were expressed, but the committee stated that it believed in so doing they violated no agreement with the mayor who still maintains they did.

Another letter received by the mayor was from Pinckney Holbrook of Dorchester protesting the proposed cutting down of the levee of the Mt. Ida playground in Dorchester on account of the trees.

Charles H. Wise of Roslindale, in a letter to the mayor, urges that location of the proposed new municipal building in Roslindale be at Ashland and Washington streets.

MARTIN KREGIER, USEFUL PIONEER

Career of Dutch Captain Told in Paper on New Netherland Group in Series on Early American Literature

WHEN Governor Fendall of Maryland sent Colonel Utie to the New Netherland colony of New Amsterdam on the South river, with threats of ejection, claiming the whole South river country for England, Governor Stuyvesant sent Capt. Martin Kregier with soldiers to protect the colony, while the ambassadors, Augustin Herrman and Resolved Waldron, were proceeding on their embassy to Maryland, endeavoring to prove the Dutch claim and have the boundaries of the two provinces settled.

Martin Kregier's history before he came to New Netherland is not known, but his long residence there was full of honorable activity. He was a member of the fire department organized in New Amsterdam in 1648, and when the burgher government was inaugurated in 1652 was one of the burgomasters, and was, ensign of the burgher guard. He was for many years a respected magistrate. He was also proprietor of a tavern situated at what is now 9 and 11 Broadway and covered by the Bowling Green Offices. On account of his official position, this became an honored place of entertainment for travelers and guests, and on the site where he officiated as host, until 1800, there was always a tavern or hotel under changing names, ending with the King's Arms and Atlantic Garden.

Military Leader

Kregier had been trained to arms and it was as a military commander that his services were oftenest in demand, though he, too, was sent upon embassies that required diplomacy, as when in 1654 he went with Secretary Van Tienhoven to Governor Eaton of Connecticut to explain that certain military preparations intended to protect vessels on Long Island sound from privateering were solely for defense.

It is in connection with the second Esopus war that the name of Martin Kregier is chiefly remembered, both because of his active and efficient participation and because, like Underhill and Manton and Gardiner, in New England, he wrote an account of the capture of an Indian fort that was the center of hostilities.

The Esopus region on the Hudson had been secured by the Dutch since 1614, when a trading post was established on the west bank of the river. The name Esopus is variously explained as having been derived from that of the Greek fabulist, from Esopus, meaning river, from another Indian word meaning a soft place, and from a minor tribe inhabiting there, but there is no sufficient data upon which to rest a decided opinion. The Indians themselves called the place Atkarkarton.

In 1643 the settlement at Esopus was destroyed by the Indians. Ten years later a party of planters from Ft. Orange, (Albany) rebuilt it, and notwithstanding raids by the Indians that same year and two years later, established themselves in a farming community of about 70 people. They had a lay reader, according to the custom in all Dutch colonies where there was no minister, who conducted religious worship on Sundays and acted as schoolmaster for the children. But in 1659, in response to an urgent request of the people, Hermanus Blom, a candidate for the ministry of the Dutch church, was sent to them from Amsterdam. He preached for a short time, when the people organized a church of 16 communicants and sent their preacher to Holland to be ordained. He returned and took up his residence in a stone parsonage that cost about $1200. Certain Ulster county records show that his salary was paid in wheat. The first church building was of logs, to be succeeded in time by a stone edifice. In three years the membership of the church increased to 60, and comfortable homes dotted the countryside.

But as the community continued to be harassed by the Indians, Governor Stuyvesant was appealed to for aid. Journeying up the Hudson with a company of soldiers to confer with the colonists, he advised them to leave their scattered farms and gather themselves into a village. He also held a council with the Indians, told them he did not come to make war but to defend his people, and as a result of his wise dealing they became so friendly that they gave the land which he had selected for a village site, instead of selling it. The settlers entered into a solemn compact to act together in abandoning their separate interests and establishing the village. They built a stockade and a guardhouse and named their village Wiltwyck, or Wildman's Village, because of the Indians' gift. This was the founding of the present village of Kingston.

First Esopus War

The Indian raids, however, continued at intervals, and in a year's time the first of the two Esopus wars broke out, the immediate occasion being an act of folly on the part of one of the settlers, and the headstrong conduct of a few others. Ensign Dirck Smit, the commandant left in charge, whose authority had been thus set aside, threatened to take his soldiers to Manhattan the next day, but the people, who as a whole were not responsible for the lawless acts, defeated his hasty plan by the very practical method of hiring all the boats and yachts anywhere about; and the situation was soon seen to be too grave to admit of reprisals.

The Indians laid siege to the village and for three weeks not a man dare go without the stockade. Upon receiving a message, Governor Stuyvesant went immediately with soldiers to the rescue, but by the time he arrived the Indians had wearied and departed, though not until they had retaliated severely for the attack made upon them.

Valuable services of the versatile Martin Kregier of New Amsterdam, burgomaster, captain of the burgher guard, magistrate, innkeeper and author, who performed an important part in the second Esopus war with Indians, are related in this chapter on the New Netherland group in the series on Early American Literature. Kregier wrote an account of this conflict, which took place at Wiltwyck, afterward Kingston on the Hudson, and his journal will be made the subject of a following paper.

The South river difficulties now engaged the Governor's attention, and the conflict at Esopus went on intermittently under command of Ensign Smit. Prisoners were taken on both sides and it was not until June of 1660 that a truce was agreed upon. In July the Governor went again to Esopus and succeeded in making a treaty. Arendt Van Curier, from Ft. Orange, and delegates from the Mohawk and other tribes assisted in the negotiations as interpreters and advisers, the hatchet was trampled into the ground "under the blue sky of heaven," and for a brief time it looked as if Esopus was to have peace.

In 1661 Governor Stuyvesant granted to Wiltwyck, until then a dependency of Ft. Orange, a municipal charter; and the new village of Hurley was planted three miles away. But the Indian troubles were not over. Governor Stuyvesant had not been adequately supported by the West India Company in the number of soldiers supplied and, under a sense of apprehension such as had betrayed the New England colonies into like acts, had himself done what was diametrically opposed to the Dutch rule, when he sold a few of the captured Indians into slavery, as a warning. This their comrades never forgave, and in 1663 there was a sudden uprising. Hurley was first attacked, while the Indians entered Wiltwyck in large numbers ostensibly to sell grain. When the news from Hurley was brought by a horseman, the Indians within the stockade of Wiltwyck fell upon the inhabitants, almost annihilating the few men in the village, the greater number being at work in outlying fields, and after setting fire to the houses carried away most of the women and children. Owing to a sudden change in the wind the village was not entirely destroyed, and that very night the 60 men left rebuilt the stockade. The massacre precipitated the second Esopus war.

Second Conflict

Captain Kregier was now despatched from Manhattan in command of soldiers. They made slow progress up the Hudson in two sloops, were disembarked at the Redoubt (Rondout) and marched to Wiltwyck, where, in the stricken village, martial law was proclaimed.

One of the captives taken had been Rachel, the daughter of Counselor La Montagne, vice-director at Ft. Orange, who had married Gysbert van Imbroeck, he escaped from the Indians and found her way home. Under her guidance a rescuing party of 200 set forth, but when they reached the place where the captives had been it was deserted. In September another expedition started out, taking as guide a Wappinger Indian who had been detained on suspicion at Wiltwyck, to whom was promised his liberation, and a cloth coat, if he led them aright.

They approached the fort at daybreak, in two companies, and under cover of the woods until very close, when a squaw catching a glimpse of the soldiers, "sent forth a terrible scream." The Indians being thus alarmed, "we did make a brave charge," writes Kregier. It was a brief encounter, the loss overwhelming on the side of the Indians, of whom 13 prisoners were taken. The Indians fled leaving 23 of the white captives behind them. The night before was the first that the captives had been kept in the fort; previously they had been taken into the woods, and so early on any other morning they would have been still hidden. "Wherefore," says the chronicle, "praise and thanks be given to God almighty."

The site of this fort has been identified with what seems to be accuracy as located in the town of Shawangunk on Shawangunk Kill about 28 miles from Kingston, although some writers state that it was in the present town of Bloomingburgh in Sullivan county. The expedition destroyed many acres of standing maize and pits of corn and beans stored by the Indians for winter food, and then journeyed home with their rescued friends. In October the company returned and demolished the Indian fort and village. A sort of armistice was finally arranged, and in 1664 a peace

MORE INTEREST FOR CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND—The city will receive $121,293 a year more interest on its deposits than in 1912, under the new contract with city depositories becoming effective July 1. The city depository commission has decided to make the contract cover average daily deposits amounting to $15,835,000.

Under the bids received the average interest rate that will be paid the city on all its funds will be 3.685 per cent, as against an average of 2.7425 per cent in 1912.

made that proved to be permanent. The wampum belt that was given to the Indians on this occasion is still in the ownership of Ulster county. When this peace had been effected a day of thanksgiving was kept throughout the whole province of New Netherland.

Henceforth Wiltwyck, becoming Kingston when the English renamed the towns of the conquered province, went on in a peaceful prosperous way, and in 1777 was the birthplace of the constitution of the state of New York.

Dealing with English

Close upon the Esopus expedition came another command, when Captain Kregier was sent with Governor Lookemaus and an armed force to withstand encroachments on the part of English settlers from Long Island who were designing to occupy lands at Navesink near Sandy Hook, which the Dutch had bought from the Indians. Kregier and Lookemaus sought a peaceful adjustment and in an interview represented to the English that they had been welcomed by the Dutch when for various reasons, such as religious intolerance and a desire for greater civil liberty, they had been banished from or had left New England and had voluntarily come under New Netherland rule; and that now they should not be found conniving against that government. "The King's patent," they replied, "is of quite another cast."

After the commissioners had returned to New Amsterdam, the Navesink Indians called and offered to the Dutch all the land they had not already bought, preferring Dutch to English neighbors. The transaction was clinched by the gift of eight red blankets and a quantity of woolen cloth, as a mark of respect to their chief, Passachlynon.

When, after a brief interval of regained Dutch rule, New Netherland became by treaty irrevocably New York, Captain Kregier was appointed by Governor Lovelace one of the captains of the militia which took the place of the burgher guard. He finally settled at Canastota now Niskayuna, on the Mohawk, where he passed away in 1713. The house he built there was still, in 1854, in the ownership of his descendants.

LIBRARIES AND LIBRARIANS

Roof of Branch Institution Found Good Place for Summer Evening Story-Telling

STORY hour on the roof of the new North End branch of the Boston public library Wednesday evenings is an event of absorbing interest to the scores of eager boys who attend. Last week 120 came, most of them Italians and Russian Jews, and Kipling would have felt complimented indeed if he could have witnessed the delight with which these youngsters listened to the jungle stories told to them under the light of the moon and stars.

The roof bids fair to be one of the most popular spots in the North End all through the summer. In fact, the whole library building is sincerely appreciated by the people of the district, and since the placing of the bas-relief of Dante in the library the Italians have been coming in greater numbers than ever. An additional attraction at present is the exhibition of pictures relating to Dante, Ravenna and Florence.

The library of the Boston Women's Educational and Industrial Union has on hand considerable material relating to girls' summer camps. This may be consulted by visitors, or girls who live out of town may write to the librarian for information. This privilege will be found especially valuable by girls who do not know exactly where they wish to spend their vacations.

Believing that Californians should have more opportunity for library training in their own state, the Riverside public library has been shaping such a course of instruction during the past three years and is now ready to go on with the work. There is to be a regular one-year training class beginning Aug. 1; a short course beginning July 1; and a summer school July 15-Aug. 28. The lecturers include Benjamin B. Bledsoe, judge of the superior court; John E. King, formerly state librarian of Minnesota; John S. McGroarty, author of the Mission play; and Edgar Williams, editor of the Redlands Review.

A great opportunity lies before North Dakota—it is that of bringing good literature for the first time to the boys and girls in the country districts. The third biennial report of the state public library commission says that teachers write that some schoolhouses in the state are without a single book and they find pupils who have never seen any book but a textbook.

Next September pedagogical libraries for the benefit of the teachers in the public schools of Philadelphia will be established in the offices of district superintendents of schools. This has been made possible by the work of Miss A. Liveright, librarian. A collection of 75 books will be placed in each of the eight outlying districts.

Clement W. Andrews, librarian of the John Cramer library of Chicago, says in his last annual report:

"Perhaps the most important change in the routine was made by the installation of a camera. This instrument permits an attendant without expert knowledge of the art to make photographic reproductions. Its use has proved both greater in amount and wider in scope than was anticipated. It was thought that it would to some extent relieve the library from granting requests for inter-library loans, and it has done this, but it was not foreseen that there would be requests for copies of ornamental alphabets, lace patterns, and portraits. Care is taken not to reproduce any copyrighted material, but few requests have been refused for this reason. The charge made for the service is 25 cents for the first sheet and 10 cents for each additional sheet. Each sheet will reproduce two octavo pages. The charge is intended, and probably is nearly enough, to cover the actual cost of time and supplies, without allowing for depreciation of the apparatus or interest on the investment.

Library progress in Kansas City is indicated in the following news items from the Kansas City Star: Purd B. Wright, librarian, told this morning what his recommendations had been to the school board for the expenditure of the $250,000 in bonds voted last Saturday for library purposes. An addition to the main library building, plans of which have been made, is to cost $140,000. There will be new and larger reference, reading and teachers' rooms and a new art gallery. The greater part of the library will be made "open shelf," that is, open to the public to select books from the shelves. Only with a small proportion of the books is this done now.

An addition costing about $10,000 is to be made the Allen library for an increase of from 8000 to 30,000 volumes. With the remaining $100,000 it is hoped to open seven new branch libraries. These are to be in the Northeast high school building, the new Karnes, one in the central south district in the neighborhood of Linwood boulevard and Brooklyn avenue, one centrally located between the Northeast and Southeast high school buildings, another in the extreme east of the city and one in the extreme south of the city.

"Were we to reduce our circulation of books to the automatic stamping of certain dates in certain places, and certain schemes of filing the cards, we might better invent a slot machine for the work; it would be cheaper," says Flora B. Roberts, librarian at Superior, Wis. "But we are dealing in human stuff," she continues, "and we cannot truly know our public without becoming a part of that public."

"Therefore, I say, join clubs, accept social invitations, pay calls, serve on committees, make addresses when asked—get asked sometimes. If you see a need for certain work in the town, take the initiative yourself, even if it has nothing to do with the library. Have a life apart from that behind your library desk."

"Don't rely too much on the telephone for your business. Get out among people. This is a thing in which I must concede a woman is somewhat handicapped. But it is quite possible to enter the business world with such dignity, combined with frankness of manner, that all experiences are agreeable. Visit schools, factories, places of interest; you will not lose by it, even per-

HOW DIFFERENT!

"Queer what a difference it makes who does things, isn't it?" asks Wrigley. "Now if I were to buy a $50 chair and use it a while, the second-hand furniture dealer would expect me to take $40 less for it because of a few scratches, but if I could prove to him that they had been made by some one of the world's great men years ago, he'd pay me an extra price for them."

The Philadelphia 16-year-old high school boy who, it is alleged, has found a practical method of trisecting all angles, thus proving erroneous a theory that has prevailed since Euclid's time, may not have received the momentary recognition that would have been paid the captain of a winning baseball or football school team, but it is sure to be much more lasting and permanent.

And, furthermore, it may be said of the work horse parade that in a modified, but earnest degree it goes on forever, up and down the busy markets, wherever Commerce makes her home.

On the pavement—the equal of any two horses that ever ate their $2 worth of feed a day; on sand and through mud—the equal of any four. Yet it works from morning till night on a pittance of gasoline and oil—say forty cents' worth of the former and a nickel's worth of the latter.

Fasts when not busy; needs no blacksmith; doesn't get frightened at a blowing newspaper; litters up no stable; requires no hay loft and grain bin; saves barn space and hired help; and can be operated by any man or grown boy who knows enough to pour fuel into a funnel. Lastly—costs but $750.

As Uncle Sam said to Mexico: "I ain't arguing; I'm just telling you." There is no argument—can be no argument in the matter at all. We feel what we have to do is only to show that for $750 we can really build a 1500-pound truck worthy the high name and reputation of the Reo. For even the costly trucks—the kinds costing $1000 and up—are acknowledged to be superior to horses in cheapness of maintenance.

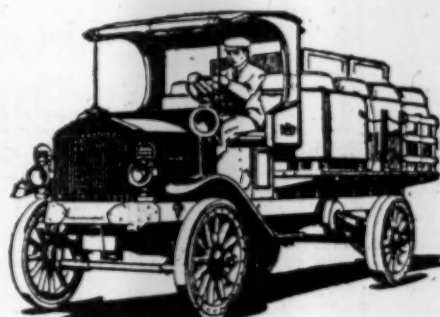

So all we ask is that you see for yourself that—at $750—we have really produced a motor truck answering perfectly and exactly all delivery needs for wares weighing less than a ton. (We're not afraid of 500 pounds overload.)

GIRL'S SMART OUTING BLOUSE CHILD'S CLOTHES SHOP
White linen trimmed with blue
RUN BY A GRANDMOTHER

THE Norfolk blouse is always a becoming one to girlish figures and it is the smartest of all things for outing occasions. This one is made with applied box plaits that conceal the seams so that it is not in the least difficult. In the picture, a pretty effect is obtained by trimming white linen with blue to match the skirt, but Norfolks of this kind are made of all white or all color and used as convenient little wraps to be slipped on whenever needed.

Active girls will surely like the shorter sleeves and open neck, but summer means a great many needs. In the mountains, the long sleeves and the shield may be comfortable. The big patch pockets are smart as well as useful.

Altogether the jacket makes a garment much to be desired. Made of soft finished pique or cotton Bedford cord in all white, the blouse will be found a very useful, practical garment that can be worn with any skirt or any dress.

For the 10-year size, the blouse will require 3 1/2 yards of material 27, 2 1/2 yards 36 or 2 1/2 yards 44 inches wide, wide for the collar and cuffs.

The pattern of the blouse (7874) is cut in sizes for girls of 14, 16 and 18 years. It can be bought at any May Mantion agency, or will be sent by mail. Address 102 West Thirty-second street, New York, or Masonic Temple, Chicago.

EVERY one knows that even a moderately good dressmaker scorns the making of children's clothes as unworthy of her talents and all are familiar with her argument that while it takes almost as long to make them as it does women's dresses, no one is willing to pay in proportion.

The mother, therefore, was often perplexed in bygone years as to a way in which to provide her children with dresses that possessed some individuality and yet were within average means.

It was not a girl but a grandmother to whom the mothers of at least one city are indebted for a solution of the problem, says a writer for the Minneapolis Journal. Practically without income and with her children all married off, she found herself getting into a habit of living between houses. About the time she got Jane's children dressed for the winter she was reminded that she had promised to visit Gladys, and there she soon found herself repeating the program of the earlier fall by making more children's dresses.

Finally she made up her mind that she would be happier in a home of her own, and as she was an independent person she decided that she could certainly do now for a living the work that she had done for years past for sheer pleasure. Naturally there was tremendous opposition on the part of her children, but she stuck to her scheme and finally won their half hearted cooperation.

She made a round of calls on the best dressmakers in town, and told them that she would like to be recommended for work of this character. In addition she put a "children's dressmaker" card in her window and advertised in the newspapers on a somewhat modest scale. Of the three methods, however, she claims that the best and most satisfactory results came through the assistance of dressmakers.

Her first work was to make up a few small dresses as models and also some attractive aprons. Of course fashions change in children's clothes as well as in those of grown-ups and rompers have largely taken the place formerly occupied by aprons for play time, but as a grandmother she believes firmly in the particular place of the apron in the child's wardrobe and refuses to give them up for her own grandchildren at any rate.

Apparently there are others possessing the same idea, for her aprons have sold like the hackneyed "hot cakes," and whenever there is a lull in business nowadays, quantities of them are made up in various styles and sizes. In fact the pieces left from wash dresses are always kept with a view to their ultimate use as apron trimmings.

For instance, when plain blue chambray aprons are being made, there are usually found among the leftovers, pieces of blue and white, or blue and red checked or plaid material, which will make effective trimmings.

Dainty bonnets for babies are also made of fine bits of material left over from the expensive hand made party dresses of older girls, and attractive wash hats for toddlers utilize otherwise useless scraps of linen and pique. The pieces thus worked up sell for many times their original value.

Her price for children's clothes is gauged almost entirely by the amount of work on them. Dresses that are quickly made on a sewing machine are more than reasonable. If handwork is required, naturally, prices are much higher, although an attempt is made to keep well below the standard set by the exclusive shops.

Splendid business instinct had evidently been lying fallow for years, for her work soon outgrew the possibilities of her home, and she opened a "Children's Shop" on a downtown street. Her window displays are unusually attractive and she carries everything for children's wear and amusement, from the layette for the infant, up to dresses for girls well on in their "teens."

CURRY GETS BETTER THE LONGER IT IS COOKED

IT is impossible to make a perfect curry west of, say, Constantinople. The spices and flavorings which give it its specific character are peculiar to the far east and should be fresh, not dried, the formula changing from month to month as different varieties come into season. In Europe and America, the only forms in which these are obtainable are curry powder and curry paste, says Harper's Bazar. (There are, however, a few types of curries which can at least be so closely approximated in occasional kitchens as to deceive any but an expert; as careful following of the appended recipes will prove. Curry paste is really preferable to the powder, but as it is sold by very few dealers, whereas the powder is almost universally obtainable, the recipes have all been adapted to the use of the latter.)

Curried beef and apples is one of the easiest to prepare and the necessary ingredients can be obtained anywhere.

One of the crucial tests in this and many other types of curry is the proper frying of the onions. To give exactly the right flavor to the dish they must neither be browned nor underdone. The proper method is to pour cold water into the frying-pan to the depth of an aqueduct inch. Add a tablespoonful and a half of olive oil and six medium-sized sliced onions. By the time the water has boiled away the onions will be partly softened and ready to start frying in the oil, which, of course, does not evaporate. Stir with a fork to prevent sticking, and as soon as they turn a pale gold, turn from the pan into a kettle and add a quart of apples, peeled, cored, and cut in quarters, together with two pounds of round steak cut into two-inch pieces, and a couple of stewed tomato. The apples should not be too tart, and the tomato should have just enough sugar added to counteract the acid and render it neutral in flavor. Season with a teaspoonful of salt, one of celery salt, and a level tablespoonful of curry powder. Cover with water and cook slowly for at least two hours.

The longer the cooking, the more thoroughly the curry powder becomes incorporated with the other ingredients, and the milder and smoother the flavor. Indeed, the latter will be found to improve each time the dish is reheated. Either a larger or smaller quantity of the powder may be used, according to individual taste. If you are fond of "hot" dishes, use twice the amount given.

The apples thicken the broth sufficiently, so that no flour or cornstarch is needed. Pour the curry into a deep platter and surround with a border of boiled rice garnished with strips of sweet red Spanish peppers and slices of preserved ginger. This dish is usually accompanied by fresh grated coconut which is mixed with the curry on the plate. The desiccated coconut may also be used if necessary, but is less palatable.

Curried eggs is a delicious and easily prepared luncheon dish. Fry one fine chopped onion as described in the last recipe. Add a cupful of white stock into which have been stirred a level teaspoonful of curry powder and a heaping one of flour—preferably rice flour. Add salt and pepper to taste, and boil until it thickens. Pour over two hard boiled eggs cut lengthwise into quarters.

SELECTION OF CORRECT
DRESS FOR WEAR ON OCEAN

YOU will find it very difficult to reach any baggage in the hold after the steamer has started, says Harper's Bazar. You should pack everything that you can possibly need on the voyage in your steamer trunk. It is surprising how little one needs. Do not make the mistake of taking old clothes to wear on the steamer. It is far better to keep the old clothes for rapid traveling on the other side, which is very hard on clothes. Nothing will harm the clothes you wear on the steamer, and the world you move in there is a very small and surprisingly observant one. One good looking suit with a waist to match, a smart ulster and hat, and the best of shoes are necessary if you are to retain your self-respect after you meet that little world. A second suit is a comfort for a change, and, if you are taking the southern route, a white serge suit is a luxury you will appreciate. One simple evening gown with a high neck is essential for dinner. On most of the large steamers it is far better form to dress for dinner, although all do not do it. Never carry an elaborate gown for this purpose and above all never an elaborate one that has seen its best days.

TRIED RECIPES

RUSSIAN FISH PIE

ONE HALF pound of cooked fish, two ounces rice, two ounces butter, one half teaspoonful of chopped parsley, the grated zest of one half lemon, salt, pepper, six ounces of flour, three ounces of dripping, one half teaspoonful of baking powder and cold water to make the paste. Free the fish from skin and bones and break into small flakes; there should be one half pound of fish without the bones. Boil the rice, put it into a basin with the butter, fish and the seasoning; mix well with a fork. Make a stiff, short paste with the flour, dripping, baking powder, salt and water; roll it out in a round piece and cut out with a sharp knife, using a dinner plate for shape. Place the fish mixture upon it, wet the edge of the paste and join it together over the top of the fish; brush it with beaten egg and decorate the top with strips of paste made from the trimmings. Bake in a rather hot oven to a rich brown color, for about 25 minutes. Serve hot, garnished with parsley.

—Chicago Record-Herald.

CHEESE TARTLETS

Two ounces grated cheese, one half ounce corn flour, three quarters ounce butter, one or two eggs, one quarter teaspoon salt, pinch cayenne pepper and one gill milk. Line greased patty pans with pastry, blend corn flour with butter in a small pan; add milk and stir till it thickens; remove from fire, add yolks one by one, stir well, add other ingredients and whites of eggs (whipped stiffly) and stir in lightly. Fill tins half full. Bake in quick oven about 15 minutes. Serve at once.

HASH FROM CODFISH

Put fish, potatoes and beef that may be left over from the dinner into a chopping tray and chop fine, mixing all together. Fry out slices of pork, turn the hash in frying pan and pour on a little boiling water. Heat up slowly and stir brown without burning, then smooth it out and fold as an omelet. Butter may be used instead of pork if desired.

VIRGINIA STUFFED HAM

Put one ham into boiling water and cook three hours; cool and remove the skin and bone. Make a dressing of a loaf of white bread, three onions (chopped fine), one tablespoonful butter, one teaspoon each celery seed, sage and thyme, and a little pepper and salt. Make a deep incision in ham and remove the bone. Fill the cavity with the dressing. Sprinkle with brown sugar and bake slowly for 2 1/2 hours. Baste with the liquor in which the ham was boiled.—San Francisco Call.

STITCHING HELP

To prevent garments from slipping while stitching them with the sewing machine, slip an old pillow case over the leaf of your sewing machine and pin it so that it will be stretched tightly, says the Woman's Home Companion. When sewing dark materials, cover the leaf with a piece of dark cloth, as the white lint is likely to adhere to most materials.

ODD PORCH TABLE

An oblong porch table of woven willow, on mission lines, is as practical as it is unusual, says the Newark News. The top of the table is provided with a long drawer, while beneath is a shelf between the two substantial uprights serving as supports for the table. The drawer has brass handles.

PUTTING UP THE FIRST FRUITS

Rhubarb, strawberries and cherries

WITH the coming of rhubarb, cherries and strawberries, the canning season is well on its way, and wise is the housekeeper who can a few jars of each fruit as it comes during the season. If a jar or two be done at a time, the canning is not a tax on time or strength and the store of fruits for winter grows surely, says the Pictorial Review. In canning, only sound, ripe fruit must be used, all jars must be tested, the right caps gotten for each jar and new rubbers provided. Wash each jar and then sterilize jars, tops and rubbers by bringing to the boiling point in hot water. Drain the jars but keep the tops and rubbers in the water on the back of the range ready for use. Use only granite, aluminum or porcelain preserving kettles and wooden spoons.

Pineapple and Rhubarb—In combining these fruits, use one part of pineapple to two parts of rhubarb, allowing a large cup of sugar to a pint of the cooked fruit. Shred the pineapple and cook until tender in just enough water to cover it. Cut the rhubarb, skin and all, in small pieces and add to the pineapple. Cook until soft, then add the sugar. Boil the mixture for 20 minutes, then seal. This makes a delicious preserve.

Rhubarb Marmalade—One quart rhubarb, six oranges, 1 1/2 pounds sugar. Remove seeds and white skin from the oranges; then chop the orange pulp and rinds very fine. Cut the rhubarb into small pieces and add the sugar. Mix all together and boil until the mixture thickens; then seal while hot.

Canned Strawberries—Four quarts of strawberries, one quart of granulated sugar. Hull the berries, cover with the sugar, place in large bowls and allow to stand over night. In the morning drain the fruit, being careful not to mash it. Boil the juice down one half and add the berries, boiling a few moments until the fruit is thoroughly scalded; seal at once. Any juice remaining may be canned to use in sauces, ices or cool drinks for hot days.

Canned Cherries—Three pints of fruit, 1 1/2 cup water, one cup of sugar for each quart jar. Put the sugar and water in a kettle and let it come to a boil. Pit the cherries and add. Simmer 10 minutes, or until the fruit is thoroughly scalded. Then fill the jars until the juice runs over. Seal at once.

Preserved Cherries—Select ripe, sour cherries, wash and stone them. Take equal parts of fruit and sugar and allow one half cup of water to each pound of fruit. Place alternate layers of fruit and sugar in preserving kettle and allow this to stand for one hour. Then add the water and put over the fire. Let the mixture simmer slowly until the cherries are clear and the syrup very thick. Seal at once.

EMBLEMS FOR CHILDREN'S YOKES AND SLEEVES

Should be done in the solid satin stitch

EMBLEMS embroidered on yokes and sleeves of children's dresses give a pretty touch of handwork. To have the best effect the emblems should be done in the solid satin stitch. Use mercerized cotton No. 20 in red and blue.

CRETONNES OF THE DAY A DELIGHT TO HOUSEWIVES

QUITE as necessary, in the routine of housecleaning, as scrubbing and painting wood and investigating closets is the task of freshening last year's curtains, draperies, loose covers, etc., or—if they are quite beyond redemption—of buying new ones. The main difficulty arises when the housewife is confronted with the seemingly endless array of materials and designs, each one "exactly what she had been looking for." She was quite sure, when she started, that the cover on her shirtwaist box and the curtains at the den windows were good enough to be used another year. But by the time she has walked through one aisle of the shop she is equally sure that they are dingy and faded.

Of all the materials shown, the cretonnes, perhaps, are the most attractive and popular, says a New York Tribune writer. Never has there been a greater profusion of color than is found this season in decoration, and never have the grouping and combining of colors been so well understood and executed.

The domestic cretonnes and some of the English ones, as well, may be bought for as little as 24 cents a yard and at various other prices up to 74 cents, the usual width being 31 inches. One piece with a great deal of design and very little background is developed in dark woody tones in a small flower and leaf-pattern which is very effective. The floral designs are always more or less popular; but many prefer the reproductions of ancient Chinese and Japanese figures. These latter designs are shown to advantage in the hand blocked English cretonnes.

The blocking process is an interesting one in which a great deal of labor and care is involved. The blocks are of wood the same size as the cretonne pattern, and into the face of each one are inserted minute pieces of shaped copper ribbon in a different design, the combined designs of all the blocks forming the complete unit. The interstices are filled with felt or rabbit hair. Each design follows the lines of a different color. For instance, when the cloth is laid over the first block and hammered all the blue of the design is printed on it. It is laid over the next block, in exactly the same position and hammered again, and all the brown of the design is printed. With each block another color is added, the number of blocks used depending on the number of colors in the pattern. The process is an ancient one, a simplified form of it having been used by the Persians as far back as 550 B. C. The wonderful Persian shawls, with their intricately traced patterns, were all made in this way. When one considers the skilled labor required at the prices of these hand blocked prints seem remarkably low, most of them hovering just below or above the dollar mark.

The most charming effects are found in the shadow cretonnes, with their soft, indistinct outlines, which are obtained by painting the warp before it is woven. The pattern is firmly stamped right through the threads, dipped in water to remove any superfluous amount of color, dried and then woven with either a white or light colored wool in the case of the French cretonnes or a black or dark colored wool in the case of the Persian cretonnes. The French shadow effects, with their delicate pinks and blues, are always appropriate and attractive for the bedroom, while the darker and richer Persian ones are particularly effective in the library or drawing room. The prices run up to the $4 a yard asked for a heavy rep cretonne in exquisite colorings.

Every room in the house is considered in the manufacture of these cretonnes, even the nursery or playroom. One style which is sure to appeal to the very little children has four rows of Dutch or Japanese children running together in all sorts of fascinating games. The full width, which consists of four rows of the figures exactly alike, sells for $1.74 a yard. It is also sold in strips about ten inches wide, with one row of figures to a yard and sold for 39 cents a yard. The ground is white and the figures on some pieces are a soft deep blue, while on others they are the gayest of red and green combinations. They make charming borders for the walls of the children's nursery.

DUSTING MADE EASY

Oil cleaning is lessening the labor of housekeepers and producing more sanitary results. It is no longer necessary to dust floors on knees or to flit dust into the air with feather or dry cloth dusters. Loosely woven cloth is chemically treated so that it absorbs dust into its texture and leaves a polished surface on furniture at each stroke. These dust cloths cost 15 to 25 cents. Bags of doubled cloth, prepared with oil and fitted to brooms and floor brushes sell for 35 to 50 cents. Long-handled mops with absorbent yarn can be had for $1.50, while separate "mop heads" for your own handles are 50 cents. Special small mops for inaccessible places are 25 cents.—Mothers Magazine.

EYELETS IN PANAMA HATS

After nearly ruining two Panama hats with unsightly and destructive hatpin holes, writes a contributor to Good Housekeeping, I now have asked my shoe maker to put two white eyelets, such as are used on shoes, in the crown of my new Panama so that, now, instead of two holes always growing bigger and bigger or, worse still, many minute holes, I have two neat ones, which cannot grow bigger and are easily found, when I want to put my hatpins in my hat.

SUGAR HELPS START FIRE

ONCE read a discovery, advising campers to add a quantity of butter to their store of supplies, as it often proves invaluable in starting a fire of damp twigs, etc., writes a contributor to Good Housekeeping. I wondered if many knew what a blessing a small quantity of sugar can be in like circumstances. I have used sugar many times, when the fire was all but gone and have often revived a stubborn, smoldering fire in the kitchen range and even in the fireplace. As sugar contains sufficient carbon to cause it to ignite, a bright flame appears almost instantly. It is entirely safe, and as sometimes half a teaspoon will suffice, it is not as extravagant as it at first sounds.

WORTH KNOWING

When expressing a linen suit, which I had carefully laundered, says a contributor to Good Housekeeping, I sewed it to the bottom of a pasteboard box, by taking a coarse needle and thread. This prevented it from sliding into one corner, and it reached its destination in good condition.

If your petticoat or princess slip is so thin that the form shows when standing in the light, instead of wearing an extra petticoat, line the front gore with some heavy material.

My chamois gloves have been washed many times and are as soft as when new. Each time I wash them, I put a teaspoonful of olive oil in the basin of water, and use a white soap. A teaspoonful of olive oil is also put in the rinsing water.

DAINTIES MADE OF COCOANUT

Fruit dishes attractive with the nut added.

PREPARED coconut may be used in all recipes calling for fresh coconut, requiring less sugar, however, as the prepared article is slightly sweetened. A sprinkling of it over fruit, plain custards or a simple salad transforms these foods into dainty and often elaborate appearing dishes. It may be mixed with a plain loaf cake or added to simple icings; in each case being found a delicious addition.

Cocoanut Sandwiches—One cup cocoanut, one half cup nut meats, one teaspoon of flavoring, three tablespoons of sugar, six tablespoons very thick cream, whole wheat bread, whipped cream. Chop the nuts until very fine, add the cocoanut, flavoring and sugar. Mix well and add the cream. Mix to a paste. Have ready round slices of whole wheat bread with whipped cream slightly salted. Spread the filling on the bread, add a few drops of lemon juice if desired and press the top slice on to make a firm sandwich.

Cocoanut Macaroons—One and one half cups shredded cocoanut, one half pound powdered sugar, whites of five eggs. Beat the egg whites until stiff and very dry, fold in carefully the powdered sugar and the cocoanut. Mix very lightly. Drop by teaspoonfuls on oiled paper; bake in a slow oven 20 minutes. Take out of the oven when a golden brown and, when cold, moisten the underside of the paper so that the macaroons may easily be removed.

Cocoanut Custard—One pint sweet milk, two eggs, one half cup cocoanut, two tablespoons of sugar, one half salt spoon of salt, one half teaspoon of cornstarch, one half teaspoon of vanilla. Dissolve the cornstarch in a little of the cold milk. Have the remainder of the milk hot in a double boiler and stir in the cornstarch. Cook 10 minutes. Beat the eggs and sugar together, pour the boiling milk over them and return to the fire until thick and creamy. Remove at once from the fire, set in cold water and stir until almost cold. Add the flavoring and cocoanut and pour into dish in which it is to be served. This is a delicious custard to pour over fruit or broken cakes or macaroons or over molded jelly.

Cocoanut Pudding—One pint sweet milk, one half cup sugar, two eggs, two tablespoons of cocoanut, one half cup crackers, one teaspoon of lemon extract, one quarter cup confectioners' sugar. Mix ingredients together except whites of eggs and confectioners' sugar. Bake one half hour. When the pudding is firm, remove from the oven, beat the egg whites until stiff with the confectioners' sugar, cover top of the pudding, place in the oven and brown. Serve cold.

Cocoanut Pie—One cup shredded cocoanut, four tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, two cups sweet milk, one quarter cup cream, one half teaspoon vanilla, dash of nutmeg, two eggs. Scald the milk; beat the egg yolks until light with the sugar, add the cornstarch and mix with the scalded milk. Cook, stirring constantly until it thickens. Remove from fire, add cream and cocoanut and set away to cool. Beat egg whites to a stiff froth, add vanilla and nutmeg and fold into the custard. Have a pie tin lined with pie crust, prick all over with a fork, brush with a little of the egg white and place in the oven to bake until firm. When done, fill with the custard, replace in the oven and brown. Serve cold.

Cocoanut Cookies—One half cup butter, one cup sugar, one egg, one half cup shredded cocoanut, one half teaspoon vanilla, two teaspoons baking powder, flour, milk. Cream the butter and sugar, beat egg until light and add to mixture. Add cocoanut, vanilla and baking powder which has been sifted with one half cup flour. Add just enough flour to make a dough soft enough to roll out. Bake in a quick oven until a pale brown. If dough seems too dry, add one or more spoonfuls of milk.

Cocoanut Salad—One cup cocoanut, two sour apples, one cup celery, two tablespoonfuls of onion, one tablespoonful of parsley, three chili peppers, French dressing, lettuce or tomatoes. Pare, core and chop the apples; chop the celery, parsley, and onion very fine, add cocoanut and mix all together. Cover with the French dressing and serve on lettuce leaves or in tomato cups.—Pictorial Review.

An excellent way of using stale cake is to cut it in slices and spread each slice with preserves. Lay the cake, thus spread, in a deep dish and heap up with whipped cream.

SMART GOWNS OF BRIDESMAIDS

The picturesque quality of the smart bridesmaids' gowns distinguishes them from the frocks of other seasons. Many are developed in chiffon, net and lace, but lovely as these sheer garments can be they lack the chic and dash of the soft taffeta costumes with overdresses of fine lace. Some fetching little lace frocks are made very distinctive by vests or coats of brilliantly colored taffeta, says the New York Sun.

While the large picture hats are always attractive for the bridesmaid's hat and are now smarter than the small hats there is a piquant appeal in a poke bonnet of pink Milan faced with pale pink moire.

For the little flower girls, who are always an effective addition to the bridal party, there is nothing nicer than a soft batiste or chiffon, with trimmings of fine lace.

VEIL CASE

A lovely veil case may be made of one-half yard of flowered ribbon, eight inches wide, lined with a half-yard of plain ribbon, says the New Orleans Picayune. Before lining, spread a thin layer of wadding over the ribbon and sprinkle with sachet. Now over-hand the two ribbons together with small even stitches along the selvage edge, shaping the ribbon into a point at one end of the case.

Through the center of the case run a strip of varied ribbon tacking in place at regular spaces to form pockets for the different veils.

A narrow ribbon is also fastened to the pointed end so that the case may be tied after it is rolled.

CURTAIN STRAPS

Very dainty curtain straps may be made of a strip of flannel. Cut the desired length and fold the ends to form a point, also fold the net along the sides and secure it by a line of cross-stitching. Embroider a simple cross-stitch design down the center of the strip. At each end fasten either a crocheted or button-holed ring.

These net embroidered straps, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, are very attractive when colors matching the overhanging are used for the cross-stitching. The straps are lovely in all white with a pattern of line darning to take the place of the cross-stitch patterns.

NAPKIN CASES

Among the many dainty pieces of Madeira work shown in the shops are napkin cases, shaped quite like envelopes, says the Indianapolis News. The flap is elaborately embroidered. Other cases similar in shape are for handkerchiefs.

TO CLEAN MATTING

For the best results clean straw matting on a warm dry day, says the Chicago Journal. Use a cloth well freed from a solution of salt and water and the matting will not turn yellow.

NOTE AS EDUCATIONAL CENTER BRADFORD, MASS., DISTINCTION

Town That Is Home of Bradford Academy Has Retained Individuality, Though Now a Part of Neighboring City—Site of America's First Cotton Cloth Factory

NAMED FOR STREET IN ROWLEY

IN 1897 Bradford, Mass., became a part of Haverhill, but in all other respects the town has retained its individuality. It was in 1639 that the Rogers, with 60 Yorkshire families, settled Rowley, named after their beloved Rowley of York. The land on which settlement was made embraced the territory now known as Rowley, Georgetown, Boxford, Groveland and Bradford.

The town of Bradford was incorporated in 1672, the name being taken from one of the streets of Rowley, which in turn was so named by one of the families whose home was Bradford, England. A land purchase from Masconomet, the Sagamore of Agawam, extended the borders of the little town to the Merrimack river on the north and to Andover on the west. This vicinity became prosperous and early developed manufacturing, among them the first factory to make cloth in America. There is still some manufacturing in the town. The place was well governed, and took an active part in the world's affairs, being ably represented by Daniel Thurston in the first provincial congress.

Along educational lines Bradford always has been among the foremost and as early as 1700 the fact may be found entered on the town records in the handwriting of the clerk that, "The Town did impower the Selectmen to Imply Wemen to teach let children to read."

At a town meeting in 1802 it was voted to establish what is now the oldest institution of its kind in America, Bradford Academy for girls, and one year later it was established.

Bradford Academy was founded by the parishioners of the Congregational church of Bradford. Most of the earlier preceptors, as the principals were then called, were graduates either of Harvard University or Dartmouth College. It was Benjamin Greenleaf, whose term of office extended from 1814 to 1836, who gave to the academy its first real standing as an exceptional institution in its particular line.

In 1836 the school became an establishment for girls only, and at that time Miss Abigail C. Hasseltine, who had been preceptress since 1815, became principal. The principal now is Laura A. Knott, and there is a teaching staff of exceptional ability.

Situated about 30 miles from Boston, on the Merrimack river, which runs through the no less beautiful Merrimack valley, Bradford is not only well suited for school purposes because of good transportation facilities, but the environment is such as to add to the advancement of students. The Boston & Maine railroad furnishes steam transportation, while the electric cars pass right by the academy grounds.

Music is one of the important studies at Bradford Academy. There are frequent excursions to Boston to hear the Symphony orchestra, when the season is on. The academy maintains three musical organizations among the students, the Leonora society, the glee club and the mandolin club. Other student organizations are the Christian union, the athletic association, the college club and the dramatic society. The alumnae association has maintained its good work from its inception.

BRADFORD, ENGLAND, SEAT FOR YARN SPINNING AND WEAVING

Yorkshire City, Market for Long Wools Used in Worsteds Fabrics, Said to Have Taken Its Name From Ford Over River or From Hill

NOW HAS MORE THAN 300 MILLS

Royal arch in Manningham Park, Bradford, Eng.

LONDON—Bradford is an important manufacturing town and parliamentary and municipal borough, on a tributary of the Aire, in the West Riding of Yorkshire. It is said to derive its name either from a ford over the river, here called Broad-Aire, or from "brae," a hill, and ford.

Its early history is connected with the De Lacies, in whose hands the manor remained until the beginning of the fourteenth century, when it passed by marriage to the Lancastrian branch of the Plantagenets, John of Gaunt being the last of this house to hold it. From him it passed to the crown, in 1399, the crown in turn selling it, in the reign of Charles I., to the corporation of London. In the civil war the people of Bradford took the Parliamentary side, and twice defeated the Royalists, though they were afterwards defeated by the Duke of Newcastle.

Bradford is the chief seat in England of the spinning and weaving of worsted yarn, and the great market for long wools used in worsteds fabrics. This trade was introduced into Bradford in the seventeenth century, and has made very rapid progress since the coming of the steam engine. The first mill was built in 1738, and there are now more than 300 mills employing a large population. There are many great warehouses for worsted goods and also a "conditioning-house," the only one in this country, which was established by the corporation in 1887. The famous Manningham mills for silk and velvet, erected at a cost of £500,000, are amongst the most extensive in the kingdom.

The merchants of Bradford have long been distinguished for their liberality and enterprise, and amongst them may be mentioned such familiar names as the Listers and Sir Titus Salt. The city itself is largely modern, but it contains some fine public buildings, of which the most important are the town hall, St. George's hall, and the exchange, completed in 1867. The parish church of St. Peter is a fine building in the perpendicular style, with a tower of interesting documents.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

SACRAMENTO UNION—Dr. Salvador Castillo, the Nicaraguan minister to this country, believes that it is only a question of time, and not very long, before the time will come when another canal across this continent will connect the two great oceans, and that this canal will cross Nicaragua. In our opinion it is not at all improbable that this will be the case. Transportation capacity breeds transportation capacity, and it would not be strange if the Panama canal bred the conviction that another canal would be desirable. If so, the canal will be constructed across Nicaragua. It is a comparatively wide stretch of country that it would traverse, but a great lake and the San Juan river reduce the part of it that would need to be cut to 29 miles. It is no certainty, but it will not surprise us if in the end time, the great revelation, demonstrates that Minister Castillo is right in anticipating a Nicaraguan canal. On the eastern continent but one interoceanic canal is a possibility. On this continent there may be two—and no more—and it is entirely possible that our children will see them if we do not.

NEW YORK TRIBUNE—Mr. Murdoch's bill to create a federal naturalization commission deserves general support. The present naturalization law is a patchwork. It had stood for nearly a century when Congress a few years ago amended it to the extent of eliminating fraud and corruption in the methods of issuing naturalization papers. Supervision of the processes by which aliens attain citizenship is now strictly enough to guard against the scandals of the old system. But an even completer federal control of these processes is desirable. The state courts still exercise joint jurisdiction with the United States courts in granting citizenship. It would be well if the nation assumed a larger responsibility in this field. It is authorized by the constitution to provide a uniform rule of naturalization, and it ought to relieve the state courts more and more of a duty imposed on them simply as a matter of convenience. At the same time the processes of naturalization ought to be simplified. Some purely physical difficulties now put in the way of applicants should be removed and above all the antiquated language of the law respecting persons of races eligible to naturalization should be clarified. The government owes it to itself to define strictly the terms used in a law which is likely at any time to become a source of diplomatic controversy.

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER—The Cleveland government having appropriated $2,000,000 for the rebuilding of the Welland canal, the time is near when Ontario, the little sister among the great lakes, will be united with the world's most important commercial inland waterway. It will require five years to build the new canal. It will have a depth of 30 feet and will accommodate most of the vessels which now pass through the Soo locks. It will immediately place the Lake Ontario ports, both Canadian and American, on a practical parity with the ports of Lake Erie. The building of the new Welland canal will not, however, bring the navigation of the upper lakes any nearer to the ocean. The St. Lawrence canals, between Montreal and Lake Ontario, have a depth of only 14 feet. There is no serious movement under way for deepening or rebuilding them. The new Welland canal, therefore, will merely unite Lake Ontario with the other lakes, and will not unite the lakes with the sea. Of course the time is coming when the St. Lawrence canals will be improved up to the standard of the new Welland, and Lake Ontario will become a link in the direct chain of waterways. Till this is done she should be content with being merely an accessible appendage to the Great Lakes, after having been for so long excluded from the benefits of inter-lake commerce.

Real Estate Market News T W of Activities Sailings

Robert T. Fowler has sold for Harvey C. Wheeler a lot of land at Forest Hills and Robeson streets, Jamaica Plain. The purchasers are David S. and Herman O. Beyer of Cambridge, who buy to improve for residential purposes. The lot contains 35,309 square feet and is taxed for $7800. It is understood the purchase price was much in excess of this valuation.

The same broker has also sold for the Curtis & Pope Lumber Company to Patrick Horgan the three-family dwelling 60 Seymour street, Roslindale. The property is taxed for $6500. The new owner buys for investment.

The same broker has sold for Julian C. Haynes, administrator of the estate of Ida C. Haynes, the property at 37 Oriole street, West Roxbury. The estate consists of a single family dwelling, stable and 18,600 square feet of land at the corner of Wren street. The purchaser is Charles B. Wingate of West Roxbury, who will improve the property and occupy.

Through the office of Llewellyn W. Vinal, William H. Newcomb has sold to Samuel Ralby for his own occupancy the frame two-family house at 262 Normandy street with 5500 square feet of land. The total assessed value is $8000, of which $2200 is on the land.

The same broker has sold for Emily Cameron to Giovanni Cantoni the frame two-family house at 14-16 Greenwood street, near Erie street, with 3200 square feet of land. The total assessed value is $4300, of which $800 is on the land.

Samuel Pearlman has taken title from Ella F. Quinlan to an improved estate on Abbottsford street, between Walnut avenue and Crawford street, comprising a two-story stone stable and lot of land containing 13,323 square feet. It is assessed for a total of $8700, of which the land carries $4700.

Another was made by the Abby A. Rockwood estate of a frame dwelling at 196-198 Walnut avenue, near Munroe street, to Annie A. Hazelwood. The house is taxed for $5000 and the lot for $2000, making a total assessment of $7000.

Final papers have gone to record in the sale of the two-story brick house taxed to Catherine Gebhard for $3000 and located eight miles street, between Rockland and Dale streets. There are 1354 square feet of land included in the deal which carries $500 of the assessment. Ella M. Rice is the new owner.

NORTH END AND SOUTH END SALES

James H. Brennan, 31 State street, has sold for Mary C. Forbes her property, being a four-story brick building at 564 Commercial street, who buys for investment. The total taxed valuation is $3800 of which $3900 is on 982 square feet of land. Simon Silverman is the buyer.

James H. Crosby and another have purchased from Thomas Reilly, a four-story well-front brick dwelling, at 96 West Concord street, corner of Shawmut avenue together with 1220 square feet of land, all assessed for $8000. The land is valued at $7500.

DORCHESTER TRANSACTIONS

Morris Spirtz bought from Max Sandman the single frame house at 95 Fowlmer street, near Greenwood street together with a lot containing 3831 square feet of land. The assessors value the house at $4000 and the lot at $1000 additional.

Henry J. O'Meara has purchased a frame dwelling from the Esther H. Hawks estate, located 64 Capen street, between Evans and Maxwell streets. The entire property carries a taxed valuation of $4300. The land value is $300.

HOME BOUGHT IN CHARLESTOWN

Catherine Cotter has purchased the frame dwelling at 15 Chapman street, near Lawrence street, Charlestown, formerly owned by Abbie R. Poore. There is a ground area of 1740 square feet valued at $2000. The total assessment is $2900.

Hearty applause from an audience that filled the theater of the new Elizabeth Peabody house was accorded the first public performance, last night, of the Business Women's Club dramatic class which presented three one-act plays, "Mrs. Oakley's Telephone," "Miss Oliver's Dollars" and "The Piper's Pay."

MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETS

Discussions were held Tuesday by various sections of the Massachusetts Medical Society, which held its one hundred and thirty-second annual convention at the Copley Plaza. Among those who had papers to read were Dr. Bradford H. Peirce, Dr. John B. Hawes, 2d, Dr. Walter J. Bailey, Dr. Frank B. Mallory and Dr. Harvey Cushing.

MALDEN GETS COLLEGE PASTOR

The Rev. Henry Hanson, an instructor at Upsala College, Kenilworth, N. J., has accepted an invitation to become pastor of the Malden Lutheran church, and will assume charge Sunday. He has preached at Boston, Quincy and New York city. His acceptance of the Malden church also places him in charge of the Everett Lutheran church.

ITALIAN CHILDREN TO DANCE

Opportunity to see folk dances by Italian children of the North End is being given those who are attending this afternoon the repetition of the children's fete on the estate of Moses Williams in Brookline. Attractions which gave both children and grownups much merriment last Saturday are also again in evidence, including the yumm-yum tree and the house of the three bears.

TECH HAS FIRST "POTLATCH"

Technology men from the class of 1868 down to the undergraduates crowded into Mechanics building for the first "Potlatch Chantant," which has been introduced to supplant the customary "Tech Night" concert, Monday night. "Potlatch," it was explained, is an Indian word meaning an entertainment given by one tribe to another.

COMMERCE PUPILS GRADUATE

Sixty-one graduates of the commercial school of the Young Women's Christian Association received diplomas at the graduating exercises of the association, in the Y. W. C. A. building, 60 Berkeley street, last night. The Rev. William P. Odell, Ph. D., of St. Mark's church, Brookline, was the speaker and his theme "Triumphs of Ethicalism."

ADVERTISING MEN TO CONTINUE DISCUSSIONS

BALTIMORE—General discussions of the publicity situation in the United States are in the program of the Associated Advertising Clubs today, when the third day's sessions of the ninth annual convention open.

An event outside the regular program of Tuesday which aroused extraordinary interest and comment was an open letter from Joseph A. Richards of New York, to President Wilson on the President's recent charges against newspaper advertisements relative to the tariff bill. The President was reported as saying that the newspapers were "filled with paid advertisements, calculated to mislead the judgment not only of public men but also the public opinion of the country itself."

In his letter Mr. Richards said that at the time when the Underwood tariff bill was being drawn up he presented to a group of men who were "fighting for their business life, as they sincerely believed," a plan for paid advertisements in the newspapers. "They thought," the letter ran, "they could do nothing more straightforward to impress you and the senators and representatives in Congress with the fact that there is another side to the sugar situation."

The letter went on to say that the writer resented an implication that the work with which he was connected was misleading. It declared in closing that no one had challenged the statement made in the advertisements except the President himself.

800 BANKS TO ASSIST FARMERS

FORT WORTH, Tex.—The farmers will be helped in marketing their 1913 cotton crop by about 800 banks, according to Peter Radford, president of the Farmers Union.

The banks will advance money on warehouse receipts for stored cotton at the rate of 6 per cent per annum for six months or longer. The loan will be made to the farmer upon depositing his warehouse receipt and signing a note negotiable in any part of the country.

President Radford will urge that the farmers borrow at the rate of $35 per bale, or 70 per cent of the market value of the cotton at the time of the loan.

CONTRACTS GIVEN FOR LARGE SHIPS

PORT ARTHUR, Ont.—Four other contracts beside the Noronic will keep the Western Drydock & Shipbuilding Company busy for many months with nearly 1000 men on the payroll.

They are a large tug for the Lake Superior service, to the order of James Whalen, Port Arthur; one stern-wheeler passenger boat for the Canadian Pacific railway on the Kootenay lakes, British Columbia; one large tug for the company and one 625-foot long frigate.

The latter huge boat will convey or cargo 450,000 bushels of wheat, or tons of package freight or coal.

CONVENTION OF
NEW CHURCH TO CLOSE ITS WORK

Delegates to Visit Neighborhood House in Lynn, and to Attend Graduation at Cambridge

Making an excursion to the West Lynn neighborhood house and attending the graduation exercises of the theological school in Cambridge, the delegates to the general convention of the new church will end their program today.

The report of the West Lynn neighborhood house shows a balance in the treasury of $114, the receipts being $2,165. The clubs of the neighborhood house will continue through the summer. Attendance for the year in the classes averaged 32 members.

The joint meeting of the Board of Home and Foreign Missions and the Augmentation Fund committee was held this morning.

The graduation exercises of the New Church theological school opens with prayer by the Rev. James Reed, resident pastor of the Boston church. The Rev. Norman O. Goddard preaches the sermon, and Walter B. Murray reads a thesis on "The Origin of Knowledge."

Graduation at the New Church school for girls in Waltham takes place the afternoon of June 18.

At the meeting of the National Alliance of New Church Women held yesterday in Pilgrim hall officers were elected as follows: President, Miss Ednah C. Silver; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. F. Howe; recording secretary, Miss Elsie Hobart; treasurer, Mrs. Fred Burdett.

PAST HIGH PRIEST

WHERE TO LOOK FOR INSTRUCTION

Leading Educational Institutions

THE PRINCIPIA

HIS co-educational school for boarding and day pupils of all grades has been established fifteen years. It is well equipped for work in all the departments of a modern educational institution. The gymnasium, swimming pool, bowling alley, and running track appeal to the students. An expert gymnasium director and successful athletic teams arouse much interest. The military department develops executive ability in the boys, trains them to take responsibility and tests them as cadet officers. On the scholastic side the work is thorough, fitting for college or for business.

SOCIAL WORKERS TO SEARCH INTO THEIR OWN ACTIVITIES AT MEETING

Ethical Questions and Others to Be Given Publicity Instead of Receiving Private Consideration as Has Been Past Custom

HOPE IS IMPROVEMENT

Whether or not social settlements have promoted democracy, and if so, how, is one of the questions proposed for discussion at a unique conference of social workers to be held in New York next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, under the auspices of the Public Forum.

The meetings will be held in the Church of the Ascension, Fifth avenue and Tenth street, and are scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at 8 o'clock and for Saturday afternoon at 2:30. The program is being arranged on the basis of the replies received to 53 searching questions which have been sent to social workers asking them to pick out the questions in which they are interested, to tell which question they are willing to discuss themselves, either formally or extemporaneously, and to give the name of some speaker for a certain topic which they may wish to hear considered.

The general topic of the conference is

"The Ethics and Professional Basis of Social Work," and at the opening meeting John Collier will speak on the pertinency of the inquiry. Other speakers already decided upon are Miss Frances Perkins of the committee on safety, who will speak on "Social Work as a Compromise," H. F. J. Porter, secretary of the Efficiency Society, who will talk on "Social Work as Cure and Prevention," and Benjamin C. Marsh, executive secretary of the New York congestion committee, who will address one of the meetings on "Capitulation to Contributors."

At this conference social workers will be invited to face for the first time publicly and together the more or less disagreeable ethical and material questions which they usually face privately and without counsel. The conference will pass from a discussion of the social worker's relations with his co-worker to that of his relations with philanthropy, and from this to philanthropy's relation to social work and the relation of social work to economic and political progress.

If the conclusion of the conference is that social work is truly and permanently a profession, then it is hoped that out of the conference directly or originally will come clearer professional standards and a knowledge of how to make social work more disinterested, more clear-sighted, more dignified, more independent of the whims of individual philanthropists.

Questions Proposed

Among the questions proposed for consideration are these: Is social work a career or a temporary enlistment? Do not social workers concern themselves chiefly with curative rather than preventive measures? Is social work still largely concerned with benefiting individuals rather than society? Is social work a substitute for economic justice? Has the privately supported social worker any legitimate place in a democracy?

The following have consented to serve on the committee which is making the program: Samuel McCune Lindsay, vice-president of the New York School of Philanthropy; Boyd Fisher, secretary of the Public Forum; Henry Fleischmann, administrator of the Educational Alliance; the Rev. Percy S. Grant, director of the Public Forum; Mrs. Borden Harrison, president of the civic and social center committee; H. W. Herbert, judge of the night court, Jefferson Market; Graham Taylor, associate editor of the Survey; F. S. Tomlin, secretary of the Central Federated Union of Brooklyn; E. Stagg Whitin, executive secretary of the national prison labor committee, and Benjamin C. Marsh, H. F. J. Porter and Miss Frances Perkins.

The following have consented to serve on the committee which is making the program: Samuel McCune Lindsay, vice-president of the New York School of Philanthropy; Boyd Fisher, secretary of the Public Forum; Henry Fleischmann, administrator of the Educational Alliance; the Rev. # Late Financial Developments Wool Trade

CURRENT WOOL MOVEMENT SHOWING A SLIGHT INCREASE

More Hopefulness Is Manifested by Dealers in the Outlook Because of the Price Level Reached and an Apparent Revival of Interest in the New Clips

Aggregate current sales of wool are a trifle larger than the May weekly average in this market, but a large part of the demand is for new sample lots and can hardly be regarded in the light of a veritable expansion in general requirements.

Some of the transactions reported since June came in have been due evidently to the fact that such a low price level has been reached as to make the offerings seem more attractive than at any previous time this season. On the low basis now reported for a large number of offerings, the importation price has been almost met, and there appears to be no good reason why a fair amount of stock should not be taken when concessions of this nature are made.

Dealers feel a little more hopeful regarding the outlook because of the slightly increased interest shown in the new arrivals. It cannot be said, however, that they have any very conspicuous examples of active buying to encourage them. The improvement, if it may be so termed, is due rather to a feeling that something may now be ventured in the direction of a larger trade movement, on account of the length of time that has elapsed since the new wool season opened, as well as on account of the decline in quotations.

Some of the wool merchants operating in the West are awakening to the keenness of competition for certain desirable clips on the part of mill buyers. In a few instances the wools that dealers here have been accustomed to compete for in times past have gone direct to manufacturers and the opportunity to secure them has been missed. Some increase, therefore, in the building by dealers' representatives is observed.

This applies to the buying in the territory wool primary markets rather than in the fleece wool sections. In the latter the prices are still relatively high, compared with this market, where growers feel able to hold their stock comfortably and wait for a more settled market.

Absorption of offerings, therefore, proceeds somewhat slowly in Ohio and adjoining states in the lake region. There is no change in the figures offered by eastern buyers, and there is a decided disposition to refuse to make concessions on the part of strong owners of new clips.

It is difficult to give definite prices for any line of stock. The most that can be said is that all buyers who look beyond the immediate present in their negotiations for supplies are trying to get as near to a free wool basis as possible. Those who take stock for goods in hand are less anxious on this score, if they can obtain the supplies needed at a reasonably low figure.

The goods market gives promise of making a little more business on orders of heavy weights. The prospects on importations of fabrics for the heavy weight season are not such as to give the domestic manufacturers so much anxiety as they anticipated a short time ago. It appears that manufacturers abroad are counting more upon invading this market with the next light weight season's output, and may not try very hard for a footing here during the current season.

Probably by the time that the American manufacturers get their plans developed for the later season, the tariff will be practically defined, and the wool market can reach a conclusion regarding the amount of speculative interest that it will dare to take in future prospects.

It is worth noting that arrivals of wool in this market for the first half of 1913 will be about 50,000,000 pounds less than for the corresponding period last year, and may not much exceed 80,000,000 pounds in all, unless the movement is accelerated considerably in the next fortnight. The weekly receipts now are about one third as large as they were at this period in 1912, when supplies were coming forward freely.

It should be added, on the other hand, that shipments by Boston dealers are running behind in somewhat similar proportion, although there has been a fairly good clearing up of old stocks in proportion to the whole movement, so that some 40,000,000 pounds less this year is reported on shipments, and the output is about equal to receipts this year to date.

GRIFFIN WHEEL COMPANY DOING GOOD BUSINESS

Evidence of industrial prosperity is particularly agreeable in times of great investment discouragement like the present. One of the newer industrial works has been making an especially fine record is the Griffin Wheel Company, incorporated under Massachusetts laws a few months ago and largely owned by Massachusetts investors.

For the four months to April 30 last, the company's net earnings were over $534,000 or nearly 30 per cent in excess of the $390,000 annual 6 per cent dividend charge on the $6,000,000 preferred stock for the entire year; in short the company is earning over 26 per cent on its preferred stock.

The $9,300,000 common stock of this company is rather closely held, the management and inside interests owning fully $6,000,000.

The Griffin Wheel Company has a capacity of 5500 wheels per day when its plants are running full and sells its product, to railroads comprising 65 per cent of the total American mileage. A strong feature in the company's income position is the fact that its so-called repair work during the past 20 years has never failed to earn enough net to take care of preferred dividends. This repair work consists in large part in converting worn-out wheels into new wheels. It is an interesting fact that these worn wheels make far better chilled iron wheels than those made entirely from pig iron. In the aggregate this recasting runs into enormous tonnages.

DIVIDENDS

The New York Edison Company declared regular quarterly dividend of 1 1/2 per cent.

The American Surety Company of New York declared regular quarterly dividend of 2 1/2 per cent, payable June 30 to stock of record June 14.

EXTENT OF THE BIG REACTION IN SECURITIES

Prices at Lowest Levels of the Year and in Some Cases Are Lower Than at Any Time Since Panic Days of 1907-08

RANGE OF QUOTATIONS

The heavy liquidation in the New York stock market has not only wiped millions from the valuation of many prominent securities, but has carried 200 issues—of which 75 were rails and 125 industrials—to the lowest levels of the year. Practically every prominent stock traded in on the New York exchange is at the lowest point of the year. A large number are scraping on the bottom levels of 1910 and 1911 and in many instances prices are lower than at any time since the panic days of 1907-08.

The following tabulation shows the more prominent railroad and industrial stocks dealt in on the New York stock exchange, which have recently made new low marks for the year. The drop from the high point this year and the extreme range during 1912 is also appended:

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

NEW YORK—New York stock exchange has admitted to list Pennsylvania Railroad Company $1,864,850 subscription receipts, first instalment 30 per cent paid, for 1913 issue of capital stock.

equal to the preferred dividend requirements for the full year.

Walworth Manufacturing Company declared regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent, payable June 30 to stock of record June 20.

Ludlow Manufacturing Associates declared regular quarterly dividend (No. 57) of $2.50 per share, payable June 25 to stock of record June 11.

The Electric Light & Power Company of Abington and Rockland, North Abington, Mass., declared a semi-annual dividend of $4 per share payable July 1 to stockholders of record at close of business June 19.

The Eastern Texas Electric Company declared a semi-annual dividend of $3 a share on the preferred stock payable July 1 to stock of record at close of business June 18.

BOSTON & MAINE NET FALLS SHORT FOR FISCAL YEAR

Indications are that Boston & Maine in the fiscal year to end this month will earn nothing on its $3,149,800 preferred or on its $39,505,390 common stock. In fact it is doubtful if fixed charges will be covered.

This is the more remarkable on account of the fact that up to the early months of last winter the road was earning at the rate of 6 per cent on its common stock.

Since February, especially, the net earnings of Boston & Maine have dwindled seriously. Gross has slowed down from the pace set in the months from July to October, but has still been slightly ahead of last year. Net earnings, however, declined 52 per cent in February, 45 per cent in March and 22 per cent in April.

At the end of January gross was 7 1/2 per cent and net 11.6 per cent ahead of last year. At the end of April gross was 6.1 per cent ahead of last year and net actually 2.2 per cent behind last year.

	Gross Inc.	% Inc.	Net Dec.	% Dec.
April	$118,144	3.1	$190,475	22.4
March	$2,949	1.2	$12,501	45.4
February	$17,903	4.7	$24,445	32.7
Jan	$2,002,130	7.5	$608,842	11.6

"Increase." Boston & Maine, at the close of April had earned net operating income of $6,811,887. If May and June should return the same net as the same months of 1912, Boston & Maine would have total net, after taxes, for the year of $8,644,000, compared with $8,959,000 last year.

Such result is considered impossible, however. May, 1912, was a big month and there is every reason to believe that net earnings of both May and June will run well behind those of last year. It is likely that Boston & Maine's net earnings will not be much above $8,200,000.

On the other hand Boston & Maine's charges this year will be increased over a half a million dollars by larger equipment hire and increased interest charges on its heavy floating debt which has been outstanding during the past year.

Last year Boston & Maine earned 2.7 per cent on its common stock, a substantial recovery from the 1.1 per cent shown in the 1911 year. This year Boston & Maine slips back again and will not even make as good a showing as far as share balance is concerned as was made in 1911.

MAY EARNINGS OF EDISON CO.

The May earnings statement of the Edison company of Boston shows an increase of 10.56 per cent in gross and a 6.90 per cent increase in net, the comparatively small increase in net being due to unusually large operating expenses, which increased $30,000 or 14.71 per cent during the past month. In the previous month gross earnings increased 12.77 per cent, and net increased 12.21 per cent.

The statement for May and 11 months compare as follows:

MRS. R. H. BARLOW STILL LEADS IN EASTERN GOLF

Merion Cricket Club Star Goes Over Last 18 Holes in 97 for Grand Total of 296 Strokes

HER THIRD VICTORY

The final round of 18 holes in the annual championship tournament of the Women's Eastern Golf Association was played on the Brae Burn Country Club links this morning and resulted in some of the best golf seen there during the progress of this tournament which started Monday morning.

Mrs. R. H. Barlow of the Merion Cricket Club of Philadelphia who has held the championship title during the past two years gave another wonderful exhibition of golf this morning when she did the 18 holes in 97, exactly the same score she made on the opening day Monday. Her golf today was practically flawless. Her highest stroke record was 7 and she only had three of them. She had but five 6s and made a 3 at the thirteenth. Her card follows:

Out 5 6 5 7 6 4 5 5 5 48
In 5 6 5 6 3 7 5 6 4 7 49-97

Miss G. M. Bishop of New York again failed to show up in her true form as she took 108 for the round this morning. This gave her a grand total of 328, much too high for a player of her skill.

Mrs. G. W. Roope of Brae Burn played very good golf this morning and nearly got into the 100-class. She was out in 50 and came back in 51 giving her a total for the day of 101 and a grand total of 310.

COMMERCE WINS H. S. TRACK MEET

Showing superiority in the intermediate and the junior division in the fifth annual Boston High School Track and Field League meet at Wood Island park, East Boston, Tuesday afternoon, the High School of Commerce team repeated its achievement of the indoor season, winning with 124 1-10 points. This makes the fourth track title captured by the Commerce athletes in two years. They won both the indoor and the outdoor meetings in 1912 as well as this year. Nine records were broken, three equaled and eight others created in new events. English high school was second, with 72 points, and the Boston Latin school was third, with 55 3-5 points. In the senior division the mile, 220-yard run and the hurdle records were broken, four records were broken in the intermediate division, and in the junior division two records were broken.

AMERICANS ARE CONFIDENT OF WINNING AT POLO

Brilliant Victory of "Big Four" in Opening Match Taken as Indication That Cup Will Stay in This Country Another Year

NEXT GAME SATURDAY

NEW YORK—Although followers of the American "Big Four" which defeated the English polo team in the first match for the international cup Tuesday, are today confident that the Americans will be returned the winners in the final game Saturday, the result of the first clash did not bring any feeling of overconfidence.

The Americans won by a score of 5 1/2 to 3 in one of the fastest and most spectacular games that ever marked an international contest. It was the dashy start of the Americans that really carried them to victory. The Waterburys rode brilliantly. Within less than two minutes after play was started J. M. Waterbury scored the first goal, and after play was resumed L. Waterbury scored another in somewhat less than three minutes. Milburn added a third goal before the period closed.

England scored for the first time in the second period when Captain Chespe shot the ball between the posts, and though the Americans continued their hammering at the English defense, one goal in the second, third, fourth and eighth periods was all that resulted. It was enough, but after being overwhelmed right at the start the Englishmen showed their ability to rally and put up a better defense. The English started deliberately and were simply swept off their feet by the American team's opening rush, but as the game progressed met their opponents dash for dash, and the seventh period was marked by the fastest riding of the entire match.

As the defeat of the English two years ago was laid to the poor condition of the invaders' ponies, their work was watched closely yesterday, and it was the general opinion that there was little to choose between the American and English mounts. In brushes down the field it appeared that a majority of the American ponies were faster, but Captain Ritson declared today that although he believed the American ponies showed greater speed, the English mounts were more alert and subject to better control.

When the little gray pony Sprite was in the game, the English virtually had five players. The pony played the game practically unguided and at whirlwind speed and outclassed any American mount.

The Americans lost 1 1/2 points for fouling, but this was due to their more aggressive style of play and Captain Ritson said he knew none of the crosses were intentional. Captain Whitney, of the American team, was loud in his praise of the Waterbury's work today and though he said he hoped J. M. Waterbury would be able to get back in the game Saturday, he felt confident Stoddard would be well able to fill his place.

There was a large and brilliant gathering present and they cheered the players impartially. The summary:

FIRST PERIOD

Goal: Player and nation Time
1-J. M. Waterbury, United States.....1:30
2-L. Waterbury, United States.....2:25
3-D. Milburn, United States.....3:33

9-Captain Chespe, England.....8:25

SIXTH PERIOD

No score.

SEVENTH PERIOD

No score.

EIGHTH PERIOD

10-L. Waterbury, United States.....2:37

FIFTH PERIOD

Penalties—United States 1 1/2 points on fouls by L. Waterbury in second period and D. Milburn in fourth period and D. Milburn in seventh period. Net score—United States 5 1/2 goals, England 3 goals.

SMITH CAPTAIN AT BOWDOIN

BRUNSWICK, Me.—Philip S. Smith, '15, of Leicester, Mass., has been elected captain of the Bowdoin College track team for 1914. Smith was the only Bowdoin man to score at the recent New England meet, taking fourth in the broad jump. At the Maine intercollegiate meet he took second in that event, and at the Bowdoin-Trinity dual meet he took third in the broad jump and first in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

TENNIS PLAYERS PREPARE TODAY TO GO TO ENGLAND

United States and Australasian Davis Cup Committee Sail From New York Tomorrow

NEW YORK—Members of the United States and Australasian lawn tennis teams are today making final preparations to sail for England tomorrow on the Baltic, the United States players to compete in the Davis matches and all-England tournament and the Australasians to compete in the latter. The all-England tourney will begin at Wimbledon on Monday, June 23. This will give the Americans ample time to acclimate and to condition for the subsequent Davis cup matches. The players will get good practice before playing the second round of the cup series against Germany. The American team consists of M. E. McLaughlin, national champion; R. N. Williams, Jr., Harold H. Hackett and Wallace F. Johnson.

Johnson, who is a Philadelphian, has been selected to take the place of R. D. Little. He is the famous chop-stroke player, an intercollegiate champion, former doubles partner of Clothier, and third ranked player of the United States in the singles last year and in 1909. Williams has received permission from the Harvard University authorities to make the trip.

The executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association has experienced considerable difficulty in the past in securing the best players to take part in the cup preliminaries when played abroad, as several of the leading tennis experts have declined for various reasons. This has been discouraging to the tennis authorities, and this country has failed in representative players. The quartet that will play against Germany is probably the strongest that could be secured in this country, and it is expected that the effort to recover the cup will meet with success.

The Australasians plan to spend the summer in England playing in county tournaments after the British championship.

BASEBALL PICKUPS

One more for the Athletics. It is now 15 straight.

Lajoie still has a good batting eye, but has slowed up considerably in the field.

The Boston Americans looked more like champions yesterday than at any time this year.

Jackson gave the local fans a fine exhibition of batting yesterday. Two singles and a two-bagger in four times up is good work.

The Philadelphia Nationals increased their hold on first place yesterday by defeating Cincinnati while Chicago beat New York, their nearest rivals.

Harvard meets Holy Cross on Soldiers field this afternoon in the second game of their series. Holy Cross won the first one. Felton is expected to pitch for Harvard and R. Murray for Holy Cross.

That was a great pitchers' battle in Washington yesterday. Washington got only one hit and yet won, 3 to 0. Detroit made but two hits off Johnson, who struck out seven men.

Detroit is after Pitcher Coveleskie, now with the Chattanooga club. He won much fame in 1908, when he was with Philadelphia and beat the Giants out of a chance to win the National league pennant.

Konetchy played a prominent part for St. Louis yesterday in defeating the Boston Nationals. In six times at the bat he made two singles, a triple and a home run. He also scored four runs, made two assists and 13 putouts.

It looked yesterday as if the Boston Americans had at last found out how to best Gregg, the star left-hander of the Cleveland team. He has always been a stumbling block to the world's champions, but they had no trouble in getting five runs off him in one inning yesterday.

NEW YORK—A sort of rivalry that marks all athletic competition between Stevens and Rutgers made this season's last baseball game on Castle Point field Tuesday the best sport attraction of the year at Stevens. As usual, it was a hard fought contest. A large Connecticut day crowd looked on as Stevens, after trailing runless and hitless for seven innings, rallied in the eighth and won, 4 to 2.

COUNTRY POLO ASSOCIATION REPLY HAS NOW BEEN ISSUED

(Special to the Monitor.)

LONDON—The reply of the County Polo Association to the terms offered by the Hurlingham polo committee has now been issued, and sets forth yet another proposition which will have to be considered by the Hurlingham Club. It will be remembered that the County Polo Association requested the Hurlingham Club to consider a scheme for bringing about an improvement in the organization and management of polo in this country and in the British dominions. In answer to this the Hurlingham Club submitted alternative proposals, and the County Polo Association have accepted the following three:

1. An addition in the representation of the County Polo Association on the Hurlingham polo committee.
2. An addition in the representation from the dominions and crown colonies if such be desired.
3. An addition in the representation of the army and of India.

STRENUOUS DAY FOR OARSMEN ON THE HUDSON

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Another day of strenuous practice with morning and afternoon workouts was scheduled for the crews of Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin today. Coach Conibear of Washington continues to follow his plan of one practice period daily, and the far-western eight will take to the water only between 4 and 5 o'clock this afternoon. The Washington crew is rapidly becoming more accustomed to conditions on the Hudson and its work showed marked improvement Tuesday.

Cornell and Columbia took spins over the full four-mile course yesterday, and as the same favorable weather prevails today, other of the crews are expected to travel the distance. A thorough examination of the shells of the Columbia and Wisconsin fours today revealed that neither suffered any serious damage from the collision during the practice yesterday.

Checked Career of Joel Barlow, Yankee

One of the most picturesque careers known among wandering Americans of the post-revolutionary period is that of Joel Barlow. Army chaplain, Congregational preacher, lawyer, bookseller, poet, financier, promoter, writer and editor of hymns, newspaper editor, consul at Algiers (where he rescued many Americans from slavery by his successful negotiations with the Bey of Tunis), minister plenipotentiary to the French court—this poet of Connecticut, graduate of Yale College in 1778, actually at one time attempted to revise the English Bible, not, as one understands by a fresh translation, but by editing the accepted version to suit his own ideas of English style.

Barlow is best known for his large work called "The Columbiad," first published as the "Vision of Columbus." He published certain writings in aid of the French revolution. As a deputy of the London Constitutional Society he presented an address to the French convention and then became a French citizen, making his abode in Paris. His "Hasty Pudding," a mock heroic poem, shows more ability than his other work. He took sides with the French directory in their disagreement with American envoys, but he finally came back to the United States and built himself a fine mansion near Washington, with the money he had made in France. His "Columbiad," published in 1807, was the first famous edition de luxe printed in the United States. Some of the drawings for its engravings were made by Robert Fulton, whose early artistic proclivities are overshadowed by his later fame. It was when Barlow was minister to France that Napoleon summoned him to a conference at Wilna. This was the last event of Barlow's strangely varied and interesting career. It was believed that Napoleon wished to make some plan for manning French ships with Americans against Great Britain. But the conference never was held.

Vogue of the Motorcycle

It is told of an Indian that when he first saw a man on a bicycle, about 20 years ago, he grunted: "Ugh! Heap lazy paleface—walk sitting down." What, then, asks Harpers Weekly, would the same Indian think today could he see thousands of "palefaces" flying over the country on these two-wheeled vehicles at a mile-a-minute clip without even so much as moving their feet—a sort of "skating sitting down," as it were. He would be forced to admit that, in this instance at least, "laziness" had wrought wonders and that the calmly seated white man can cover more ground in a day than could the most fleet-footed and strenuously inclined Indian runner in five. It was possibly somewhat the same attitude on the part of the "palefaces" 12 or 14 years ago that prevented the motorcycle from jumping into the immediate popularity that has since been accorded it. About this time, however, the first automobiles began to prove themselves to be the rich man's conveyance of the future, and these started the demand for self-propelled vehicles that has resulted in the production of over a quarter of a million motorcycles and motor cars a year for several seasons.

Emerson Seen Differently

A passage in Matthew Arnold's essay on Emerson, in which he told how, on Arthur Stanley's once speaking to some Americans about the poet, they remarked that they did not care for him—that he was too "greeny" for their taste, is referred to by a writer in Scribner's magazine, who continues: The opinion of these persons was not only amusing but significant. It is a common thing for the people of a country not to recognize themselves in the portraitures of writers whose particular mode of expression does not especially appeal to the majority. The foreigner spots the representative trait, where the native finds fault with the garment it wears, and denies that he "is like that at all." Almost any lettered Englishman will declare that Emerson, or, at the opposite pole, Walt Whitman, let us say, speaks out of the soul of America. But very many Americans fail to feel the fact, because they know too many things about themselves that neither Emerson nor Walt Whitman gave voice to, and because the matter which they do recognize as familiar they are congenitally averse to seeing put forth in anything resembling the rhapsodic guise.

City's Cart Brigade Puts House Cleaning to Rout

House-cleaning day has ever been a time for throwing away articles which have become useless. Annually a certain selection is made and the treasure trove of garret and closet goes to somebody, somewhere. Often the rummage sale is instituted to make account of these odds and ends which the owner dislikes but which may be of value to somebody. Lately, however, house cleaning on an enormous scale was instituted in New York city. In certain streets from Harlem to the battery notice was given that on a certain day all the rubbish turned out of the houses and piled on the curb would be carted away by the city. About 10,000 loads a day, it is said, have been disposed of in this way and used in filling at a place called Rikers island. All imaginable kinds of household goods and cast-off garments have been disposed of in this fashion. Evidently the city's impulse to be clean stirred a response in the hearts of all citizens and everybody determined to start life afresh. At least this is what it must have looked like to the teamsters busy all day long at the overflowing curbs. Heaps of old tin and iron ware, for example, made fat the bags of the junk men. It is undoubtedly true that acres and acres of space in all cities is filled with rubbish of this sort.

CHOOSE YOU THIS DAY WHOM YE WILL SERVE

WRITTEN FOR THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

MAN is perfect because God, man's Maker, is perfect. In God's man there is really no such thing as an excusable evil or a harmless sin. Every seeming imperfection of mortals, every foible, all that is unlike divine truth and perfection, is worthy only of destruction. All the trouble in which mortals find themselves is traceable to the fact that man have believed that good and evil inevitably mingle in man; that evil has as real an existence as good, and that it is usually more powerful. Mrs. Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, says of the unreal and the real in the text-book of this Science, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures": "These opposite qualities are the tares and wheat, which never really mingle, though (to mortal sight) they grow side by side until the harvest; then, Science separates the wheat from the tares, through the realization of God as ever present and of man as reflecting the divine likeness" (p. 300).

The early law, "Thou shalt not sow thy field with mingled seed," has been unquestionably obeyed in the fields. In no way does the husbandman expect or even wish to change this law of nature's repetition. What he sows he knows he shall reap. Did we but learn to guard our thought-fields as carefully as the alert tiller of the soil protects his fields from alien seed, we should be more confident of our lives' rich fruitage. A bad habit has no inherent power to hold us in bondage. Its only seeming force obtains in our consent. We cannot secretly retain the desire to indulge a habit and expect to overcome its effects, because no genuine cure was ever wrought by dealing with effects. We must go deeper and remove the hidden, creeping roots of wrong desire. Then, too, we must reach higher than erring human will for the force that truly overcomes all downward tendencies. Though it is true that human effort to improve our habits is better than no effort at all, there is nothing save divine Mind that can overcome a mortal error.

Christian Science has revealed an exact, adequate and demonstrable Principle, through the understanding of which all mortals may succeed from the start in putting off the old carnal sense with its inclinations toward the imperfect. Through this Science man is understood to be the perfect image and likeness of God. When the light of this divine Truth has dawned upon the human consciousness nothing short of perfection will ever again satisfy. The goal is a high one and to the erring, finite sense, it seems remote, but it is surely attainable. Every triumph over any error whatsoever is an advance toward that ideal condition where man is controlled absolutely by perfect, divine Mind, the one true God. The understanding of this spiritual fact has already lifted thousands of people out of bad habits. No bad habit can survive the coming into one's life of this new, spiritualized desire to reflect God. The one necessary condition precedent to the mastery of wrong habit is the intelligent love for the good and the choice of the good, the pure and the beautiful instead of the unlovely or the vicious. "Choose you this day whom ye will serve."

The false sense of pleasure in evil is wholly unnatural, unreal, and it is entirely destroyed by the spiritual understanding that true happiness can result only from unity with God, pure Mind. To one who has come near the "sweet-smelling savour" of good and pure ideas, the fumes of tobacco and intoxicants, for instance, lose their attraction. The desire dies out of its own inanition. For one who has learned the joy in words of truth, "like apples of gold in pictures of silver," the desire for gossip and profanity is absolutely eliminated. Habits of little dishonesties, the little "white lie," disappear before the stronger desire to maintain an unswerving, unassuming conscience. Slovenly, lazy habits likewise pass away before the awakened love of the spiritually active and beautiful. Persons of selfish, tardy habits awake to a more loving consideration of the rights and comfort of others. Sickly habits of thought are all purged away by the power of scientific, wholesome right thinking.

Thus does Christian Science teach that the creator imparts to man a normal preference for all that nobles. The old-time prophet voiced this promise: "Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else." Mrs. Eddy says: "Be allied to the divine power, and all that is good will aid your journey. . . . Hourly, in Christian Science, man thus weds himself with God, or rather he ratifies a union predestined from all eternity" (Unity of Good, p. 17). Through the understanding and demonstration of this spiritual alliance, thousands of persons have greatly enhanced the goodness, purity and beauty of their daily living.

BROOKSIDE PLANTS DISTINCTIVE

THE elegance of shape in certain of the water plants is something worth remark. Or perhaps one should say land-and-water plants, which are found native to marshy ground. Such are the familiar jack-in-the-pulpit and the iris, for example. The iris grows almost anywhere under cultivation but it is normally a marsh plant. Both it and its neighbor, Jack, have a fairly conventionalized beauty that looks as if the flower had been built up after forms combined from other blossoms with an eye to architectural effect. The pure curve of the jack-in-the-pulpit, overarching the head of the supposed tiny preacher and coming almost to a circle at the slender point of the canopy is so perfect that art itself could hardly have done better. The fleur-de-lys or iris also has lines of great distinction and distinctness, quite unlike the elusive charm of the rose, for example, and even the land lily, being more regular in plan, seems less premeditated in its striking severities. The water lily, again, as compared with the double rose is severe and definite for all its doubleness of effect with many petals, and the curious flat circular form of the lily pad is another illustration of the differentiation in character from the land flowers which may be traced in water plants. The marsh marigold in its blossom is much like the other crowfoots of the land, but the foliage is a further hint of the individual ways of the water flowers. Compare it with the buttercup's divided leaves and one sees at once the plant's provision for a different need.

The flaming cardinal flower also illustrates how the water plants have a formality and reserve which seem unlike the intimacies of the land blooms. There is nothing endearing in this brilliant and stately plume of dominant hue which stands beside the swift or still waters of brook or pond. Beautiful it is, and so is the blue of the pickered weed—uncertainly name—but even coming down to the curious shape of the small white turtle head, we trace still a certain eccentricity of build in these amphibians of the plant world.

The forget-me-not alone of the more familiar water plants seems to grow with both the normal regularity and rounded softness of most field and wood flowers; and even the forget-me-not lacks one charm by which many land flowers enhance their spell, namely fragrance. The water-lily alone of the water plants named here has this added attraction of the floral kingdom.

Something beyond! The immortal morning stands Above the night; clear shines her precious brow; The pendulous star in her transfigured hands Brightens the now. —Mary C. A. Hudson.

Land Values Rise in Boston

Reprinting notes from its editions of June, 1863, or 50 years ago, Leslie's Weekly shows us that at that time it was considered worthy of remark that a narrow strip of land on Washington street in Boston, containing about 500 square feet, rented for about $2000 a year. Now the most expensive property on Washington street is assessed at a value of $300 a square foot. This would be a valuation of $150,000 for 500 square feet, and at only 6 per cent the rental would be $9000 a year. It is probable that land values on Washington street today are easily 10 times what they were 50 years ago.

Hospitality must be for service, and not for show, or it pulls down the host. —Emerson.

MAGNOLIA OPENS AT BREAKFAST TABLE

THE magnolia grandiflora, the only perfectly evergreen species, is a native of the southern states of the Union, and the botanists call it "half-hardy" in the middle states. This doubtless means that it is found on lawns and grows well if carefully looked after. In Florida trees 80 feet tall are seen in the woods crowded with the magnificent blossom—their spread sometimes as broad as an ordinary dinner plate—so the travelers say whose enthusiasm crowds out their artistic sense. Why not say round as the pallid moon when she climbs the midnight blue? Magnolia buds are often sent north by mail, each carefully wrapped in a damp cloth. On arriving they are seen to be partly covered by a leathery and leather-colored scale that drops off as they develop. The bud looks as if carved out of creamy marble. It is just such a close, mute, inexpressive oval as the head of Brancusi's "Sleeping Muse." But next morning, as one sits at breakfast with the flower near, the solid carved lines of the bud begin to yield, as to a mysterious breath. Moment by moment, seen and yet not seen, the white leaves unfold, three sepals and apparently three petals, though still three others lurk within. Moment by moment the compact oval bud swells at the girth line till it becomes a perfect globe. Then there slowly appears a small circular opening at the top, like the eye of the Pantheon. Into this skyey window one may peer and see the perfectly rounded chamber within. In the center of the gleaming white ball rises the club-like pistil, two inches tall. The stamens now lie in a thick flat ring below it. As the flower continues to expand the stamens burst open and show the magenta pollen. By the time breakfast is ended the flower is fully open. The petals lie flat when fully bloomed and the flower is about eight inches across. Perhaps the flower is most lovely in the ball stage, when the charm of a sculptured white acclusion haunts the curving chalice. The picture shows it at a somewhat later stage.

Correcting Oneself

Writing of his long experience with baseball a well-known player says in St. Nicholas:

I stopped batting cross-handed. This correction of my hitting style was the result of ridicule. I was very large by this time—almost as big as I am now—and when I came up to the bat, with the wrong hand on top, and swung at the ball, I looked awkward. The players on the other teams and the spectators began to laugh at me. I decided to change my style, and I started to try to hit with the right hand on top, standing up to the plate right-handed. It was very hard for me at first, and for a long time I couldn't hit nearly so well that way as I could with my hands crossed; but I stuck to the new style, knowing that it would be a big improvement in the end. I had batted the other way so long that

Mt. Everett in Berkshires

The formal and expensive gardens of Lenox are not the Berkshires. There are thousands like them in Westchester and Long Island, in Brookline and Newport and Lake Forest, says a writer in the American Magazine. But Mt. Everett is the Berkshires, leaving its solemn wall against the west above the beautiful Sheffield plains where elms fringe the winding stream and inviting the feet of the tramp to scramble up its wild ravines and find the glory of its laurel, find beyond its summit, on a high plateau, a tiny hamlet where the old Yankee stock lives and lank men talk through their noses shrewdly, and find beyond that in turn a long-leaping waterfall in the hemlock forest and far off to the west against the sky the blue domes of the Catskills, like a procession of phantom domes.

The right shall prevail—we have said it. We have marked out our path and we'll tread it. —Wasson.

COLLEGE BOYS ARE LIKE THE BEE

SOME years ago President Eliot showed, through the results of inquiries made of the undergraduates as to the average of yearly expenses and the number of men who earned their way through college, that the charge that Harvard was a rich man's college was unfounded. The records of the Harvard students' employment office show that in 1912 1000 students filed requests for employment and that $120,000 was earned by them during the college year. Commenting on these things the Belman says that a recent report shows that 840 students of the University of Minnesota earned about $120,000 during the last academic year. The earnings of Harvard students in the summer vacation are not available; those of the University of Minnesota students aggregated the large sum of $237,000.

The students' annual expenses at the University of Minnesota are about one-half those at Harvard, averaging $463 for men at the former and about $850 at Harvard. The greater expenditures at Harvard are in part due to higher tuition, rent and board, and the average is greatly increased by the more liberal scale of living of a considerable body of students with well-to-do parents. Of the 1713 men at the University of Minnesota 815 or 47.6 per cent, engaged in remunerative work during the college year and during the summer vacation 1458, or 85 per cent, while of the women only 12 per cent engaged in such work during the academic year and 16 per cent during the summer vacation. Outside work done during the college year represented a great variety of employments. The majority, however, were employed as salesmen and solicitors, clerks, waiters, student assistants, in newspaper work, as musicians, draughtsmen, in library work, as newspaper distributors, teachers, engineers, janitors and farm hands.

Welcome for Brazil's Statesman

WHEN Brazil was a monarchy and had Dom Pedro II. for its head he came to the United States and fraternized with scholars, poets and jurists, and then returned home having won his hosts' liking and respect. The personal ties thus created had much to do with causing a mutual mood of amity between Brazilians and Americans, which, if not rooted in frequent contacts, nevertheless has been more constant than has been the case with Latin-American states older in adherence to the republican form of government. More recently, in the important and epoch-making conferences at The Hague, statesmen and jurists from the United States sharing in the deliberations on international ethics and law have been much impressed by the ability and sense of Brazil's representative, Ruy Barbosa, who, with Drago of the Argentine, compelled both the United States and Europe to put a higher valuation upon Latin America's intellectual attainments and ethical insight.

It was the good fortune of Mr. Root, when as secretary of state he toured South America, to find in Rio de Janeiro and from Brazilian officials the heartiest sort of welcome awaiting him, and also most cordial expressions of amity toward the United States. It is not surprising, therefore, to find him prominent in extending officially and personally the welcome that he will proffer to Dr. L. Muller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, who has come hither on a battleship on an errand of good will and to deal at first hand with Washington officials. Plans have been perfected by which it is hoped that ere this eminent Brazilian returns home he will have reason to believe that there is a genuine desire in the United States for far friendlier relations with republicans of the southern continent, relations that shall be intellectual and social as well as commercial.

So general and malevolent are the agencies now at work in South America to prejudice its people against the United States—the latest being the motion pictures—that it is especially necessary that a man of the rank and influence of Dr. Muller should gain a correct impression of the real national attitude.

UNDIMINISHED activity in dreadnought building in England, spite of the Canadian Senate's defeat of the appropriation of $35,000,000 for three warships, goes to show that all the Senate did was to refuse a clear contribution to the imperial exchequer. The gift might have been a daughterly lift on the mother's burden, but it had to have an extra-patriotic label in order to make it even thinkable.

THE Chicago business man who claims to have discovered that the country is going through a silent panic owes it to himself and the rest of us to preserve the silence and learn that the adjective and noun he tries to couple are not possible companions.

For the first time, according to a government bulletin, imports of animal products into the United States have come to exceed the exports in value. Conservation thus comes down to a practical household duty, not to say necessity.

HONORING the master of a lost art is very nearly what the American academy honors itself by doing when it elects Timothy Cole, the premier wood engraver, to its roll of "immortals."

Intrastate and Interstate Rates

For more than a year the legal fraternity, the investing public and railway administrators have eagerly awaited a decision of the federal supreme court on the principle involved in forty or more cases brought before it, of which the suit in which the railways traversing Minnesota and the state railroad and warehouse commission appear as the original litigants was to be pivotal. The delay in the court's decision had been attributed to divided counsels. Consequently its actual unanimity is now the more impressive. Nor is the fact to be minimized that Justice Hughes is the spokesman for the court. While Governor of New York state he became a champion of equity in the matter of imposition of rates that should be fair to owners of railroads as well as to the public, and he is unusually well fitted to deal with all the technical as well as ethical issues involved in the case.

To say that the decision gives unalloyed satisfaction to any of the several parties concerned would not be true. From the standpoint of the states, their right to fix intrastate rates on interstate railroads is assured; and so far the decision is consoling. But a limit is put on the rates imposed. They must not in any degree be confiscatory of values. Secondly, in so far as such intrastate rates exercise an indirect influence on interstate commerce they are amenable at any time to correction or abolition by direct dealing of Congress with the situation. In short, the court points the way to supplementary action by the federal legislature that will enlarge the powers already possessed by the interstate commerce commission. So that while the immediate victory is with the states, and permanently with them so far as purely intrastate rates go, the not-distant future is likely to see extension of federal power over such state action as has even indirect effect on interstate rates. In this logical outcome of the decision lies much latent power to shape political changes in the near future, and also to disclose the real attitude of the railways toward federal control. If the political group favoring maximum federal control and the railways should come to terms and agree to fight together, the team could agitate the political pool much.

Until the railroad attitude on this point is disclosed, it cannot be said just how the roads will view the decision as a whole. It certainly temporarily increases the likelihood of both state and national legislation; and the court's references to methods of valuation to be used in determining whether rates are confiscatory or not are far from comforting to corporations that hitherto have claimed special rates of increment in properties and that have capitalized values that the court now rules are too conjectural and "futurist" to be recognized by rate makers who have in mind the rights of the traveling and shipping public.

Water Problem for the Skyscraper

THAT the evolution of the modern office building, commonly known as the skyscraper, has compelled corresponding evolutions in many things incident to it has been known for some time, but the spectacular try-out in New York the other morning brought home with novel distinctness the extent to which water pressure has had to be increased to meet present demands. Probably it has occurred to the average citizen that some special water-protection system is necessary in many of the taller buildings, say of fifteen to twenty stories, and that possibly a different system still would be used in a building of thirty to forty stories. But when it gets to be a plan of water supply and protection for a building of fifty-seven stories, with the top floor nearly 800 feet from the ground, there the average man is usually willing to admit that his knowledge is vague.

In the trial referred to, which took place at the new Woolworth building, some new figures on water pressure were established and new results obtained. It was the first time a one-inch stream of water was ever thrown from the fifty-seventh floor of a building straight out into the air for 100 feet, there to break and fall to the sidewalk below in the form of spray. This stream had a nozzle pressure of twenty-two pounds—in fact the tests were so successful that it is reported Fire Chief Webb and Lieutenant Gallagher have recommended to the government that it use the Woolworth water power in demolishing the old postoffice across Broadway when the time comes for it to be torn down.

This remark of course was facetious but it is nevertheless a complimentary admission that another big question in construction has been met and disposed of successfully. To have given an inch stream at fifty-seven floors above the street with twenty-two pounds pressure and forty-six pounds pressure at the forty-third floor, where it was next tried, meant a pressure greater than either the fire department or the city itself has ever attempted. The account says that at the thirty-first floor four streams gave forth at the rate of 600 gallons per minute, fairly deluging everything in its path.

The pumps furnishing this enormous pressure are in the basement of the building and at the test they reached 350 pounds pressure, said to be twice that necessary to bore a hole through the strongest brick wall. The water supply for the city of New York has a pressure at the pumps of about 300 pounds. All this emphasizes the fact that these tall buildings, for which the United States is famous, represent more in labor, wealth and ingenuity than they show upon their exteriors and that man's achievement spreads in many directions every time he enlarges the model.

Revival of the Curfew

THERE seems to be a tendency on the part of the officials of the juvenile courts throughout the country to wish that the curfew law be put back into force and a somewhat concerted effort be made, on the part of those responsible, to keep young children off the streets at night. A San Francisco contemporary calls attention to "the old-fashioned curfew of New England, notifying the good people of the quiet villages that it was time to put the fires and lights out and go to bed," remarking that San Francisco, as well as most American cities, still has curfew laws.

There is probably no doubt that a considerable number of our cities still have curfew laws, and there is no doubt that in many places the authorities charged with the responsibility of caring for truant children would welcome the rehabilitation of this old measure. But there are others who have something to say besides the officers. For example, in a large eastern city a curfew law was recently put into effect. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that every child should be required to leave the streets at night at a reasonable hour. Yet the actual operation of the law found the parents of the children complaining against the officer or officers endeavoring to enforce it. This interesting state of affairs disclosed the presence of a considerable number of persons who were not only unwilling to discipline their children regarding the matter of coming in early at night but were equally unwilling to have the city do it.

There seems to be no more effective way to prevent the operation of a municipal regulation, which has not reached the importance of being a capital offense, than that of having the patrolman reported and investigated every time he attempts to carry the law into effect. It is quite likely it was in just such a way that many of the curfew laws became inoperative, and any attempt to revive them with those conditions still applying will be likely to prove futile. The question seems to be one of those where education and not legislation is required. Where it is deemed desirable an effort can be made, both through the parents as well as with the children directly, toward a happier and more profitable employment of their evenings.

THE tournaments each year to determine the championship of the Women's Eastern Golf Association, as well as the Griscum cup matches between Philadelphia, New York and Boston of which this year's games are either playing or about to be played at West Newton on the links of the Brae Burn Country Club, are adding a noticeable stimulus to athletics among women. Since a time somewhat before Miss May Sutton won fame with the racket, the American woman has interested herself more and more each year in lawn tennis. She learned to swim and take care of herself in the water long before Miss Annette Kellerman came from Australia to show the women of the states what really could be accomplished by the members of her sex. The American woman has also taken up basketball, and in what might be called sporadic instances has shown some proficiency in baseball. She has become an expert fencer, as was shown in this sport last year when a well-known fencer from abroad was defeated in a match of her own choosing by an American woman. Woman has ridden a horse well since the days of Diana Vernon, and there doubtless were many Di Vernons in the old colonies of New England and Virginia.

Woman rows a boat, as was shown by the new record set up at Wellesley a short while ago; and although she has never been a prodigy at getting speed out of a canoe, yet she makes a fairly good sailor and sometimes can intelligently explain the difference between a cat, sloop, yawl or schooner rig and occasionally she knows how to handle them all. She has become a good skater, and in the northern latitudes is clever with snowshoes and skis. And wherever the woman has gone in for these things she has seemed to profit by them.

The English woman is more of an inveterate sportswoman than her American sister, and is usually ready for outdoor activity of any kind, from a cross country walk to a try for a better score than her brother at the traps. Take these things all in all, and one is led to observe that in sports woman is arriving at a completeness of participation that is a fitting parallel to her widening participation in all that goes to make up modern experience and civilization. With the element of competition now coming to the front, as in the golf and tennis tournaments that are now the vogue, woman is obviously adding to her ability to participate the further ability to win.

WORD comes from Ohio that 2000 girls and boys are ready for this year's corn-raising contest, and more particularly for the trip of four days to the capital of the United States, which is the reward to all who have the good fortune to get a place in the successful class. The success of these contests is said to have exceeded the most sanguine expectations and the attention of the state has been called to them in such a way that there is no scarcity of contributors to the prize fund. Somewhat over a year ago a plan was outlined whereby contributions were to be secured from liberal men in a few counties, toward free trips for boys, one in each county, who should raise the best and largest crop of corn on an acre of ground. There was a good deal of trouble in getting the plan started, but later it came forward with a rush, for it was easy to see its obvious merits.

The average yield of corn per acre in Ohio is thirty-five bushels. In the contest of last year a boy from one of the counties beat that yield four to one, and by so doing he aroused an interest in proper cultivation never before known. Nor was the contest confined to boys. A school girl from another county raised 100 bushels per acre and had a happy time looking over Washington as her reward. Men who hitherto had considered themselves farmers of the first class were compelled to look on at this contest which proved that their children and their neighbors' children could better their own best efforts with ease.

One of the results has been that when announcement came that the contest for this year would be enlarged there were a number of new entries, aggregating 2000 boys and girls, and voluntary subscriptions from prominent men and business organizations sufficient to furnish the usual quota of trips. County organizations were also formed to exploit the movement and everything has been done to encourage the project.

The economic question involved is obvious. The state of Ohio, had 3,000,000 acres planted in corn last year, giving an average yield of thirty-five bushels. Suppose that by an improvement in cultivation and planting these 3,000,000 can be made to increase the yield to fifty bushels. The increase of fifteen bushels per acre, if carried over the 3,000,000 acres, will give to the state an additional 45,000,000 bushels of corn, a very valuable addition to the farmers' assets and the general wealth of the state. It is believed in Ohio that this can be done, and if it is possible in Ohio why not elsewhere? Aside from the increased product, it means much to the children. It teaches them industry, gives them a good training in economy and spurs them to look out for waste. It seems well worth trying anywhere.

THE ERA of sociology, social science, social consciousness, social justice, and social settlements brought with it the "social worker." It is a calling for which modern youth of both sexes now prepare as directly and specifically as they do for law or engineering. In the more advanced universities special courses are available for beginners. Class journals have been started to inform and to inspire persons who enlist, and to set forth for public use those facts and conclusions which the social workers feel that the press, citizens, courts and legislatures ought to know. Sooner or later criticism from within and without the ranks was bound to bring representatives of this new calling into counsel of a serious kind. Altering views of charity and justice, the necessities involved in financing altruism on a large scale and inevitable groupings into conservatives and radicals, all were sure to compel some sort of organization, whereby not only problems of technique but also those of group-ethics and of group-ideals could be first debated, then formulated, and then enforced.

Such a conference is to be held in New York city this week. From consideration of other persons' needs the "reformers" are to turn to square facing of their own standards and conformity or nonconformity thereto. How are they to deal with each other, as well as with the society which they presume to guide? How are they to escape being agents of the rich and patrons of the poor? Scrutiny of the list of such questions which attendants at this conference are supposed to have considered in advance and come prepared to answer, will indicate how searching is the process that it is proposed to institute now, if thereby something like a definition of group-ethics and professional ideals may emerge.

To an onlooker, especially if he happens to be of the opinion that society of today needs nothing more than original or renewed defining of all sorts of vocation-ideals, this social workers' conference has unusual significance. It is part of a great process of ethical standardization through which the world is once again passing after a somewhat prolonged and altogether unsatisfactory period of devotion to practical and philosophical materialism. Touched with the spirit of service, the social worker has impulsively thrown himself or herself into abolition of abuses and procurement of justice, and with considerable success. But the time has come now for a code professional as well as a code social, for a season of self-examination as well as of social analysis.

AMONG the distinctions of the year 1913 is now to be included the project of Virginia to invite the natives of the state home for a visit. There are found to be 621,000 of them residing outside, about a third of the number at home. Now arises the unavoidable question, will mother pay the fare?
